Here is The IDEA

A YEARBOOK AT ITS BEST can be little more than an accurate record of a year in the life of a school—a précis, as it were, or a mirror held up before the life and activities of that school that all may see the reflection.

Mirrors, however, show only the image of the subject and not the deeper things that lie beneath the visible surface. Mirrors do not reveal personality. It is in that respect that we hope that the 1940 Narva goes beyond a mirror in its service. We hope that this Narva can be a pictorial index into the personality of Park College. This year at Park has meant more to all of us than any series of pictures or write-ups can show. It is now part of our lives.

At best, then, the 1940 Narva shows the personality and the character of Park College in the lives of its students; at the worst, it is a mirror that reflects only the physical setting in which the spirit of Faith and Labor moves. We have striven for the former—you are the judge.

This book has no conspicuous theme or outline which it rigidly follows. Neither has life at Park. The treatment is informal throughout. We hope you like it.

A is for Admirable

In every school year certain personalities, activities, and events are sure to stand out vividly in the memory of all as "tops." Some of these may have been big and showy; others were less conspicuous yet entitled to a front seat in our memories—as admirable persons and things. Those pictured here were chosen for their universal appeal and for their contributions toward making this year at Park happier for all.

The Copley formal under Hoslett's supervision was one of the year's outstanding social events.

PERSONS and

We admire our faculty and trustees: Dr. Hawley, Dr. Young, Homer Mann, Dr. Adams, and all.

Mum is the word around the greenhouses in the fall. Bouquets to Mr. Sainer and the greenhouse gang.

To A. P. O. goes the credit for putting in the F. B. I. Civilian Files the fingerprints of Park's entire personnel.

The Y-sponsored Chinese dinner to aid Chinese Students was a worthy project. Yang Lung gives technical advice.

that will linger in our memories as highlights of 1939 and 1940

Lovely ladies from Cleopatra to Janie Turner have pursued this blase cad. Tops in originality—the Herr House Formal.

Consistently thrilling is Paul Fink's mellow tenor, whether it be with the choirs or in his own recitals.

These Freshmen Have Done Good Work

Droll, black-haired, Paul Hill has found his place in Park activities by being an all-star basketball man and also one of the most lovable of the eight honeys in the Mr. Esquire chorus.

"We Contend—" say Dave and Rex, Park's Junior debaters; and evidently four out of six judges believed them, for this team of fiery freshmen did well at the State Debate Tournament.

That the freshman class possesses artistic ability is to be proved by the fact that among our favorite chapel programs was a piano recital by Arthur Campbell, also a clarinetist and a scholar.

BUT THE REAL LEADERS MAY COME FROM A GROUP SUCH AS THIS

Versatile, likeable, Mickey Sharp has made a real contribution to the campus through her commendable editorial work on the Stylus and her dramatic efforts as Phoebe in the leading role of the all-school play, Quality Street.

Virginia Van Devander is the sweetheart of a French flying squadron, the Park College Public Relations Office, and the entire college. Her picture and story appeared in Life, Newsweek and the leading newspapers of the country.

As President of Sunset, Chris Smith has been an active member of W. S. G. A., and her name has also frequented the Dean's Honor Roll. It is widely suspected that her major is a philosopher.

X, Y and Z

X, Y, and Z might be called "Growth at Park." Briefly it is this.

ORIENTATION—Generalissimo Stiles helps these freshmen find their places.

ASSOCIATION—With members of both sexes, Park students find friends. Kay, Ray, Hutch, Betty, and LaVonne bask, etc., on Alumni's popular steps.

CONSECRATION—The dignified religious services of Park encourage dedication to high ideals.

RECREATION—If it is forgetting your studies for a while that you want, Edmondson and Rhoades have discovered one good way.

COOPERATION—One of Park's first lessons is in the art of working together. At no time is this spirit of cooperation more clearly shown than when fire threatens our campus.

RELAXATION — Janie, Allen, Dodey, and Jonnye have discovered the placid restfulness of Lake Hawley. It's so informal, too.

EXAMINATION—! ! ! ! ! !

EXPECTATION—For those who spend too much time in recreation and relaxation the well-worn carpet waits. Fletcher Taylor is the worried lad.

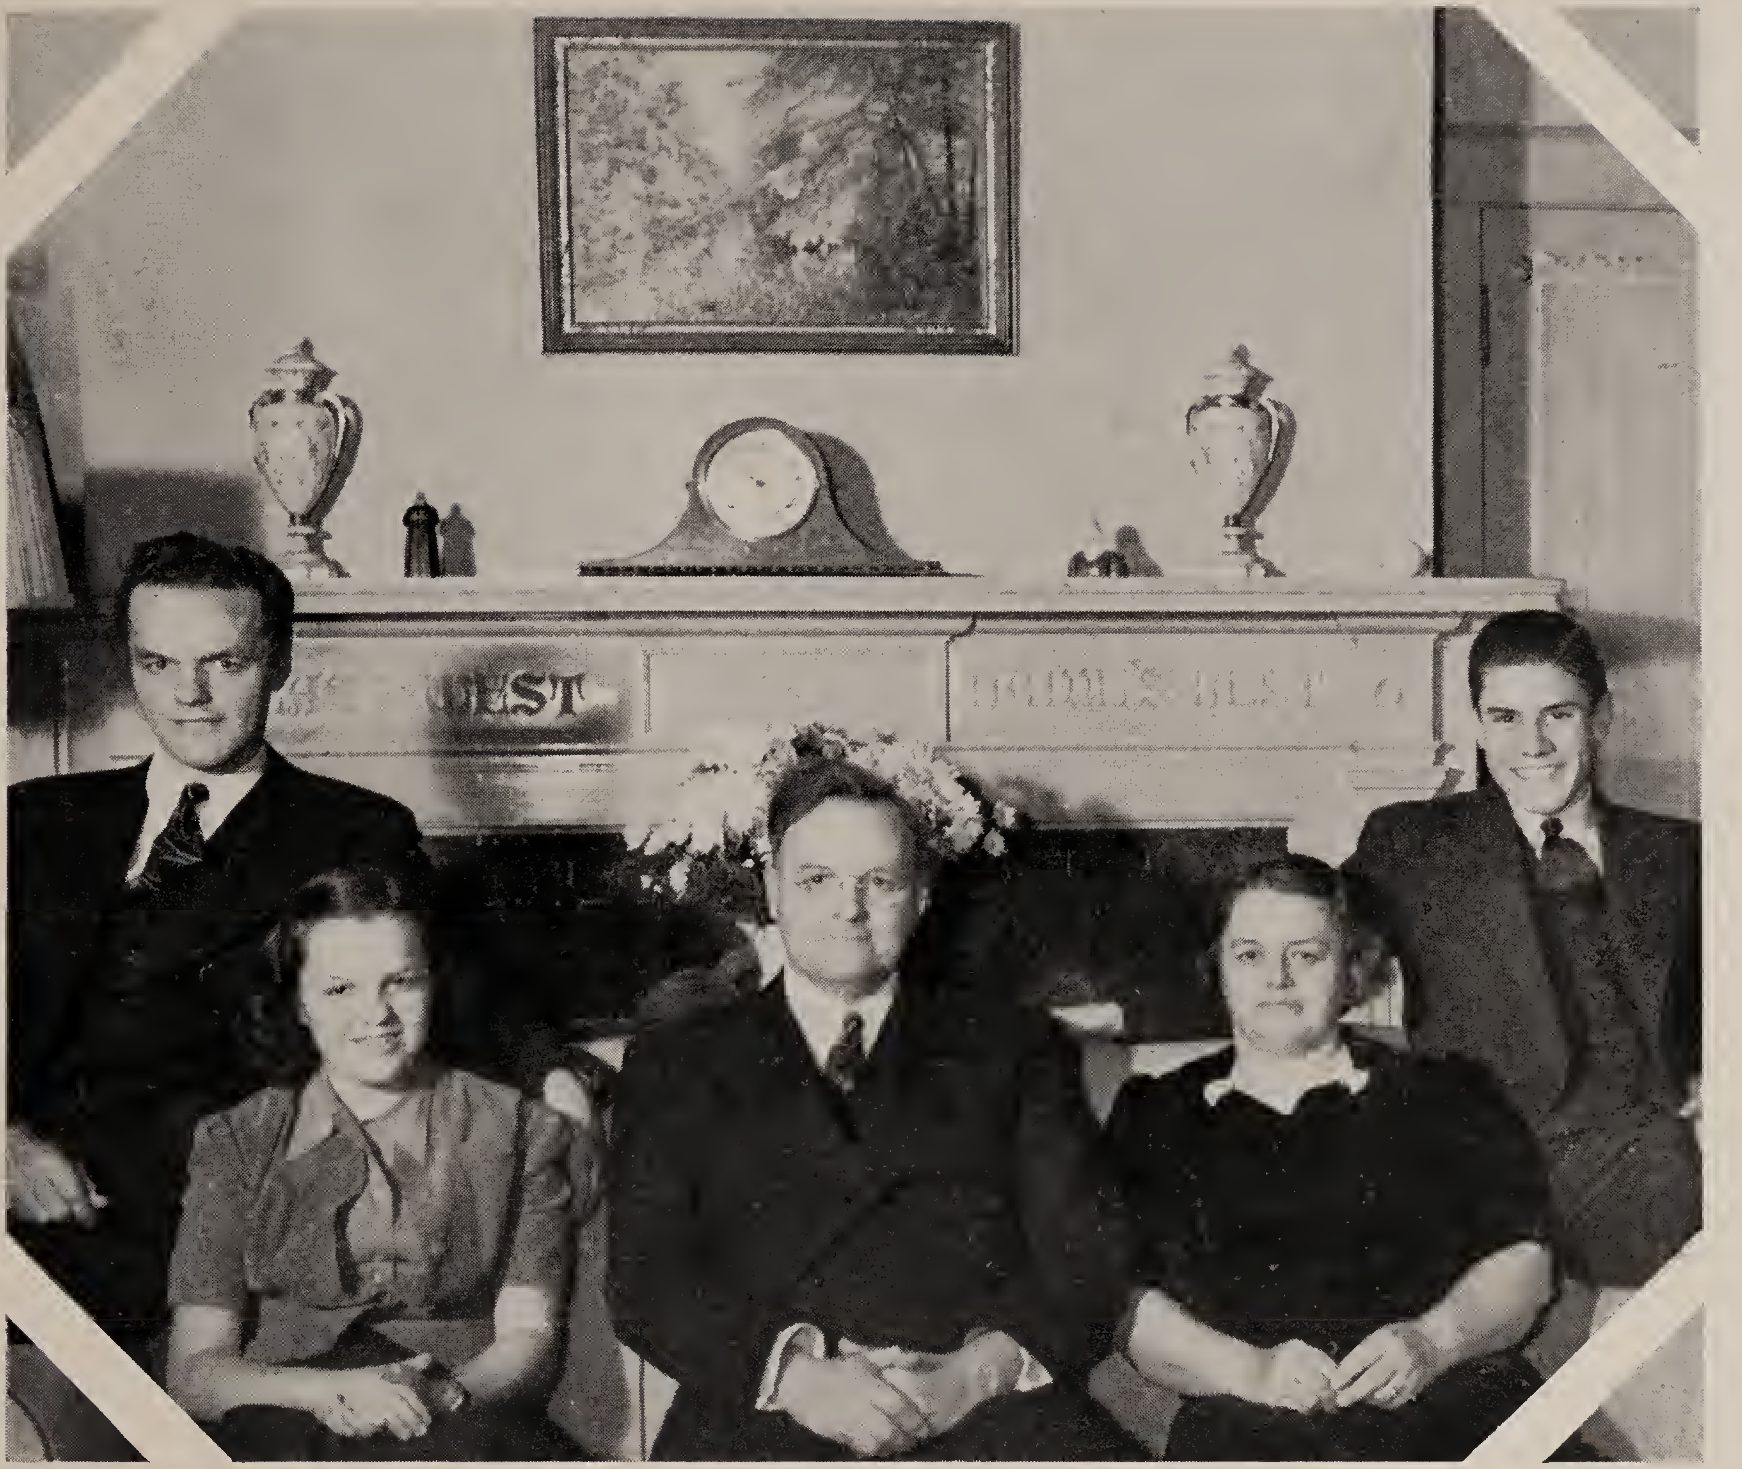
Drums or Dreams

Life is a highway upon which we may parade to the music of our own choosing. The troubled times in which we live leave us to march either to the dirge-like cadence of military drums, or to the music of our dreams of a better day. We shall keep step with an almost universal movement of destruction or we shall dare to move our feet in rhythm with the creative and prophetic souls who have gallantly sacrificed for an improved order of life. Which shall it be—drums or dreams, things as they are or as they ought to be? The choice before students entering into adulthood in the fateful forties is no easy one to make. My hope is that the music of your dreams will waft you above the din and strife of the present to a life of significant achievement.



In a democratic institution as in democratic countries, the executive finds his chief source of power in the faith and respect that his subjects have for him and not in the strength of his official position alone. Dr. Young, always eager to know the student viewpoint, makes the students eager to cooperate with him in maintaining the standard of Christian education that is Park's.

Mrs. Young the students know as a quiet, charming person who shares willingly with any Park student the wisdom and insight gained through care for a family of her own.

Bill Junior, a quiet voiced, witty philosopher is a likeable fellow student, and Bob and Betty, too, will be popular with the student body of their day as their many Parkville friends testify.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Seated: D. M. Knight, Sec. and Bus. Mgr.; W. A. Myers, M.D.; Harry C. Rogers, D.D.; John C. Long, Pres.; Homer B. Mann, LL.D.; Marvin M. Millsap, W. Gates Wells, T. Bruce Robb, LL.D.

Standing: Joseph F. Porter, Jr.; J. A. Bowman, Treasurer; Joseph F. Porter, Sr.. LL.D., V.-Pres.; William L. Young, D.D., LL.D.; Robert A. Williams, M.D.; R. B. Elliot.

Not Pictured: Silas P. Bittner, D.D.; George Melcher, LL.D.; W. C. Ralston, LL.D.; W. C. Templeton, D.D.; Lawrence E. Jones, L. H. Wakefield, G. G. Moore, Isadore Samuels. Warren B. Cooksey, M.D.

The Board of Trustees of Park College has, in the past, been to the students something not very real. The only contact that we had with the Board members was to hear references to them occasionally and to see them as very distinguished looking gentlemen at some formal school function.

Not so since Park's recent drive for the Stabilization Fund. Student and Trustee worked together, united by their common interest in their school. Park students became more vividly aware of these great personalities whose hearts are wrapped up in maintaining the welfare of the college. To Homer B. Mann, who retired last fall from the presidency of the Board is due a vote of sincere gratitude for the leading role he has played in building the Park of today.

In John Coleman Long, the incoming president, we feel is one who will lead to an even better Park of tomorrow.

Mr. D. M. Knight, our business manager, is not only the man in direct charge of all the financial matters of the entire college but also the possessor of a cheerful, patient and friendly disposition, a rare accomplishment indeed. His pleasantness in all financial transactions with the students makes him a very popular man.

Although only the senior class can recall the presidency of Dr. Hawley, it is evident to every student that Park has not been built overnight. On every hand we can see the evidence of the courageous and creative Christian leadership that characterized the twenty-two years of Dr. Hawley's administration.

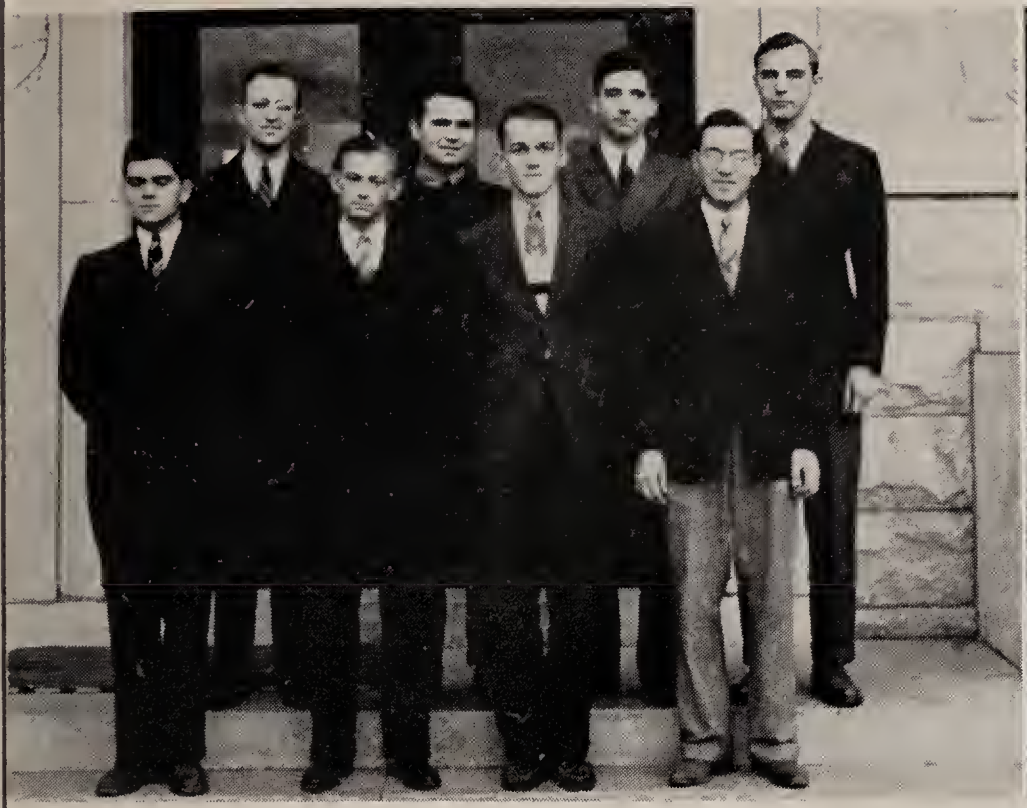
DEAN OF MEN
DEAN OF WOMEN

If the Philosophy Professor had not ultimately become the Dean of Men, it is certain that the Dean of Men, regardless of who he was, would ultimately have become a philosopher. His is the difficult task of distinguishing the malicious from the mischievous, the habitual from the accidental, and the incapable from the poorly applied. These functions Dean Cannom dispatches with his quiet dignity and firmness that has won him the friendship of the men of the college.

Whether advising freshman girls, teaching Home Economics, or acting as chairman of the student-faculty social committee, Mrs. Baxter is always gracious and sincere. Her first year as Dean of Women has seen that position efficiently filled as she has directed the social program of the campus, guided the W. S. G. A. in maintaining standards of behavior, and concerned herself with the general welfare and happiness of the women of Park.

Dr. C. W. Cannom

Mrs. Hazel S. Baxter



Dean of Men's Advisory Council

Founded two years ago, the Dean of Men's Advisory Council stands today as another landmark in the achievement of democracy at Park College. Together the Dean of Men with his student committee, made up of the presidents of the men's dormitories, the president of the Y. M. C. A., and the president of the student body, attempt to analyze and deal with problems naturally arising among the men of the college. Whereas, authority was centralized, it is now decentralized to the extent that the men students have an advisory capacity in any action vitally concerning them. This advisory capacity leads to the solving of many problems in their early stages and on the whole promotes better understanding between faculty and the men of Park.

Women's Student Government Association

The Women's Student Government Association in its third year on the Park campus has endeavored to govern the women of Park by creating loyalty to certain standards of conduct rather than by making a number of set rules. It is only through personal responsibility and loyalty that self government in any form can exist.

This year, although the W. S. G. A. has not accomplished all that it had hoped, it has made certain very definite advancements in meeting the needs of the Park girls. Problems concerning the girls of the whole campus have been considered by the W. S. G. A. Council which is made up of the four officers elected by the women of the campus and the presidents of all the women's dormitories. Those problems concerning each dormitory individually have been considered by the house council of the dormitory concerned, working in conjunction with the entire council.

The W. S. G. A. has received a great deal of cooperation from the administration in carrying out its program. It is the hope of the council that with the increasing loyalty of the girls on the campus this organization will continue to grow in influence and ability to deal wisely with student problems.

STUDENT

There are those who say that Jim Farley would do well to take lessons from a Park College campaign. Well, "Burma Shave" signs (the idea, not the advertisement) make the campus look as if all the sign painters took a holiday and painted signs. The Saturday night Mickey Mouse bows to the flashing of the fair visages of the candidates upon the screen. Pamphlets, speeches, Commons conversation, sensational surprises—all are a part of the vying of the three parties, Liberal, Progressive and Independent, for the vote of Joe Q. College. For five years Park College students have enjoyed this most democratic medium of selecting their leaders. Each Spring

GOVERNMENT

by DOTTY SCHRADER

those elected assume their roles as representatives of the students for the following school year.

For the year 1939-1940 those roles were filled by Richard Ross, President; Bernard Ramey, Vice-President, and Dottie Schrader, Secretary-Treasurer. They, with three students elected by the Student Assembly, Arabella Fry, Dean Hoslett and James Lawhead, have directed Park's student government.

Among the first of the actions taken by the council was the placement of Canteen candy machines in the dormitories, providing income for the "support of the government." The money made by these machines will be used for some campus betterment project such as last year's furnishing of the lounge.

Most important of the student committees was the Social Committee under the chairmanship of Beverly Jessen. Club halls have been opened on date nights for dancing, games, ping-pong and pop-corn; Park's program of formal and informal dances has been expanded and informal dancing in the lower dining hall on Wednesday and Saturday evenings has been successfully continued. Throughout the year, efficiency, cooperation and cleverness have characterized the work of this committee.

Notable among the council-sponsored projects was the annual all-male show, "Mr. Esquire," directed by Dick Ertzman. Dancing choruses, a style show of the latest women's fashions, original songs, interpretive dancing, skits and the "Dictators," were climaxed by the selection of Park's best-dressed man, "Mr. Esquire."

In addition to these activities the council has cooperated with the faculty on the Student Enterprise Committee and in selecting of Park students to be listed in Who's Who Among American University and College Students. All campus problems from the provision of roller skating facilities to discipline are the considerations of the council. It is through these representatives that students may participate in campus government. The activity or inactivity of the council is indicative of student desires for action.

Justice Before the Law

Slowly, then, another year of student government draws to a close. But when everything becomes quiet and peaceful—BEWARE! It's Campaign Time.

THE FACULTY

May we present the ladies and gentlemen to whom we all extended our half frozen hands on one cool September night of our freshman year? Remember? Since that memorable night of the reception on the White House lawn the Park faculty have been the challengers of our thought, the trainers of our minds, and the supervisors of our intellectual and social growth.

It is through their hospitality that the Ys are able to sponsor their "Bull Sessions" and Interest Groups and the departmental clubs to enjoy their programs. It is through their patience at registration time that our schedules bear some semblance of continuity, despite our protests. It is through their conscientious labor that the passage from a Park freshman into a senior means so much more than the aging of four years and the receiving of a diploma.

Hundreds of Park graduates are daily repaying their debt to the faculty by the living of intelligent and useful lives.

Dean W. F. Sanders

As head of the faculty and administrator of all matters academic, Dean Sanders has won respect and friendship in the educational world as he has among all Park student bodies during his years as Dean of the College. The students find him patient, good humored yet firm, and a joy to work for. He is always willing to devote his time in the aiding of a student in scholastic or other matters.

HOUSEMOTHERS

Park College housemothers are just camera shy, that's all. But why should their pictures be published? So we will remember them? Nonsense! Long after memories of parties, buildings, classmates, and ball games are forgotten Park grads will remember the housemothers—their friendly smiles, willing aid and counsel, and their firm discipline made quite palatable by tact and sense of humor.

Few are the students whose memories of Mrs. Fleming, Mrs. Sifferd, Mrs. Pipkin, Mrs. William Young, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. George Young, Mrs. Marbut and Mrs. McKittrick are not pleasant ones.

The pictures? Well—

When Chestnut girls leave a messy room or entertain their boy friends too late on the piazza, it's the dog house for them, isn't it, Mrs. Pipkin?

Although it looks like a nice gentlemanly visit, Mrs. Copley Young knows that campaign plans for inter-floor Blitzkrieg may well be a-brewin'.

Percy's and Flossie's industry are phenomena just naturally unexplainable as due to anything other than "housemotherly influence."

PARK COLLEGE
FLOWERS

Mrs. Maxwell

Mr. Goodwin

Mr. Grattan

Mr. Sainer

The feeding of five hundred hungry self-appointed food connoisseurs three times daily for nine months is the formidable task which Mrs. Maxwell directs with quiet, pleasant efficiency. Since she supervises only inexperienced student labor, Mrs. Maxwell's ability is paid an eloquent tribute by the steady improvement in Commons' food, and by the unusually good health of Park students.

All phases of campus maintenance from coal heaving to janitor work are under the supervision of Mr. Goodwin, Park's Head Work Superintendent. Gruff, good natured and generous, "the Boss" engineers many sizable projects using only student labor with a minimum of skilled workmen.

Few people realize that from the Park College Print Shop come 5,500 yearly Catalogues, 31,000 monthly Records, 900 weekly Styluses, 2,500 Alumniads five times yearly and 600 yearly Student Directories, not to mention programs, stationery and office supplies without limit. All show Mr. Grattan's high standard of workmanship.

The beautiful corsages at Park's formals, the giant chrysanthemums and snapdragons pouring into Kansas City markets and many projects of campus beautification show the guiding hand of Mr. Willard Sainer, manager of the Park College greenhouses.

Forward or Backward

Last year about this time a senior of our acquaintance who was at the moment engaged in his final academic struggle, trying to bring under control the billowy amplitude of an academic cap and gown, expressed a feeling of wonder at the awed attitude of his folks back home. What he recalled as a swell time just about to come, sadly enough, to a close, they seemed to regard with awe as an ordeal through which he had come safely only by palpable heroism.

We are inclined to second our senior friend's motion, although not without adding a twist of our own. College was an enjoyable experience, but only in the sense that here, for most of us anyway, life was not so much a "swell time" as it was the fullest, busiest, most expansive—in short, the richest time we have ever known. As such we will regret its passing.

After graduation life to many of us may easily become so full of urgent necessity once more that there will be little time for more than an occasional memory of the fullness of life which college held up as a hope. But there will be others who will plunge into broader fields and more deeply. For these college will have been only a narrow gateway into a wider world. These are destined by the forces within him, perhaps quickened and harmonized by the ordering processes of education, to expand into the Wide Wide World and have their visible influence upon it.

In short, some will look back to college from the minute they have left it. Others will look only forward. Just now we are all looking forward—to Commencement day.

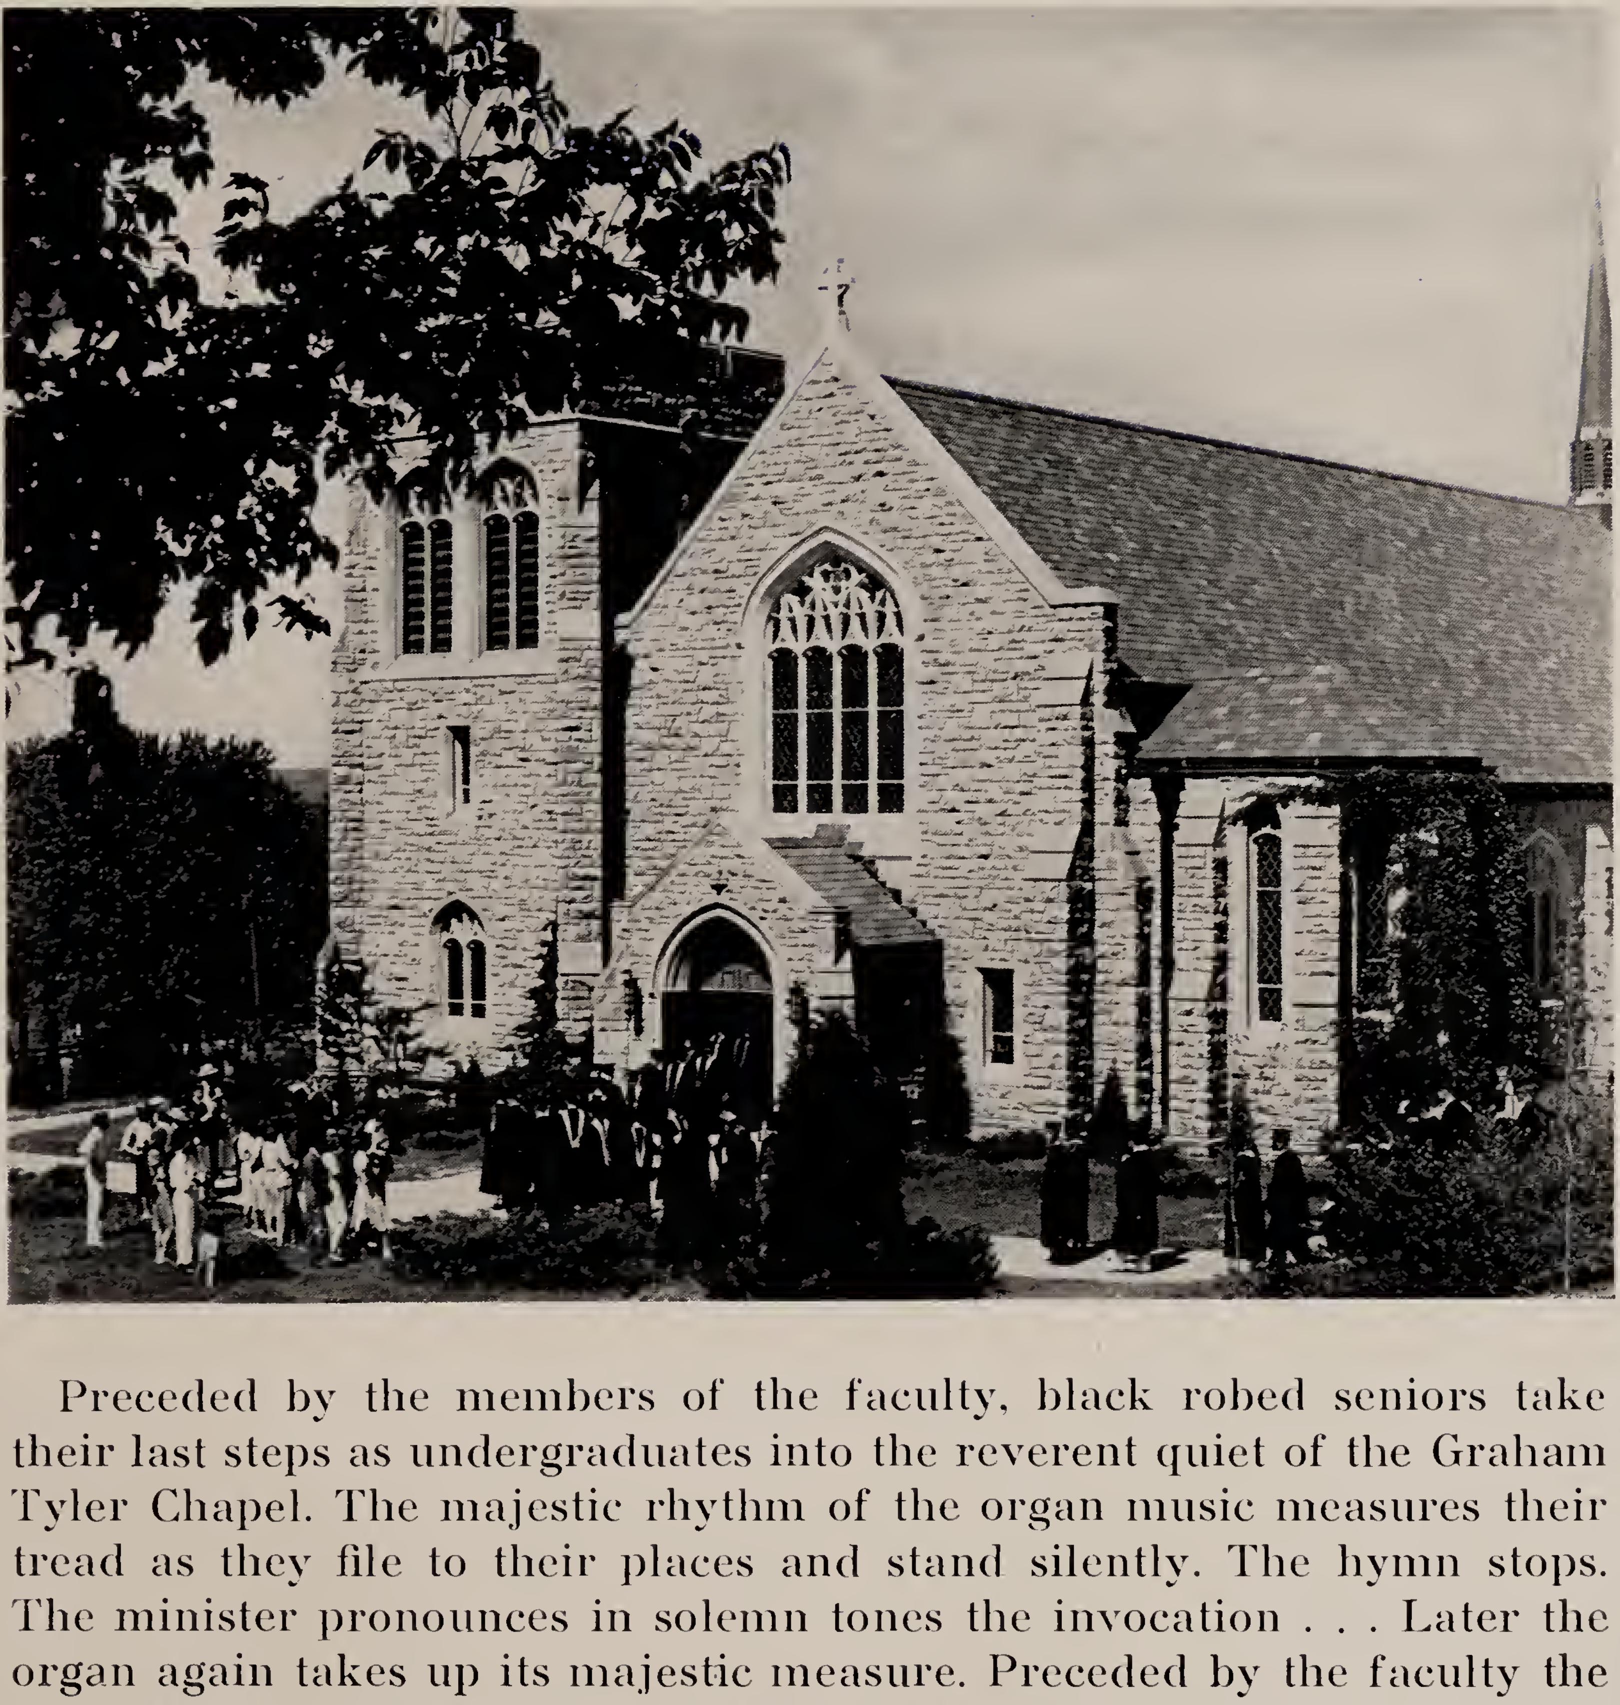
The Last 234 Steps



Preceded by the members of the faculty, black robed seniors take their last steps as undergraduates into the reverent quiet of the Graham Tyler Chapel. The majestic rhythm of the organ music measures their tread as they file to their places and stand silently. The hymn stops. The minister pronounces in solemn tones the invocation . . . Later the organ again takes up its majestic measure. Preceded by the faculty the new alumni of Park College, Class of 1940, recess from the dignified silence of the Chapel. It is Commencement.

THINKERS

wider knowledge	long hours
faculty esteem	hard grind
student respect	health neglect
bigger jobs	less social life
joy in learning	little play

Exceptions notwithstanding, we present the score sheet of those who place their emphasis on the mastering the acedemic side of college life, often to the exclusion of less intellectual achievement.

Valedictorian, Dean Hoslett, author and teacher as well as student, is a brilliant scholar, a charming personality, an immaculate dresser—a fine man.

Myrl Lindeman, Salutatorian of the class of '40, attends the University of Minnesota this year. He is quiet, scholarly, likeable, and good natured.

DOERS

CREDIT	DEBIT
Popularity	Poorer grades
Poise	Additional cost
Sociability	Possible injury
Varied Abilities	Dissipated Pep
Big Acquaintance	Less Finesse

And here is the score sheet of those whose extra-curricular activities, intellectual and otherwise, cause their grades to be lower than they might be.

Dottie Schrader, whose work in the Y. W. C. A., Narva, dramatics, forensics, and Student Council constantly demands her time and energy, certainly is a Doer.

Likewise, Allen Van Cleve's active participation and leadership in Y. M. C. A., musical, dramatic, and athletic events places him in this category.

We hope that from these two pages torn from Experience everybody has already rationalized his chosen position on the scale between bookworms and fireflies.

FORMALS

From the OAC rush week formal to the beautiful Spring Formal at the end of the year the soft lighting, the bright colored evening gowns, the heavy odor of roses and gardenias, and the restrained gaiety of formal dances and parties have intermittently quickened the pulse of Park.

There was the thoroughly masculine Copley Court, with its bewigged magistrates, the original and very feminine Nickel School, the Herr House Historical Hints on Hunting Hims, and Woodward's startling glimpse into the future. Chestnut's sophisticated theme was taken from a Hollywood movie studio while the Terrace and Stephens men cloaked their formal party in the lore of the American Indian.

Chief of the formal dances was the winter Snow Ball featuring the scintillating music of the Royal Evergreens and climaxed by the crowning of lovely Virginia Smith as Snow Queen.

The peak of Park's formal functions was the elaborate Colonial Party at which the seniors were the guests of the faculty. Amid decorations that told of our country's childhood, the Virginia Reel, led by faculty members in Colonial attire, again rang from floor to rafters.

The Park Ys can honestly claim to be the most constructively active organization on the campus. Entirely independent of the financial, curricular, social, and religious program of the college proper, the membership and participation entirely voluntary, their program and activities open alike to members and non-members, the Ys have striven constantly to enrich student life at Park.

Freshmen will recall the Ys' friendly aid in getting situated upon arrival last fall, the play night at the gym, watermelon feeds, the Bull Sessions and Interest Groups in the professors' homes, and the "big brothers and sisters" who helped to cushion the first bumps of college life.

Four hundred and eighty Chinese students will remember their winter clothing for which the proceeds of the Y-sponsored Chinese dinner were used. The Men of Park will remember the stirring words of Arthur M. Hyde at the third annual all men's banquet.

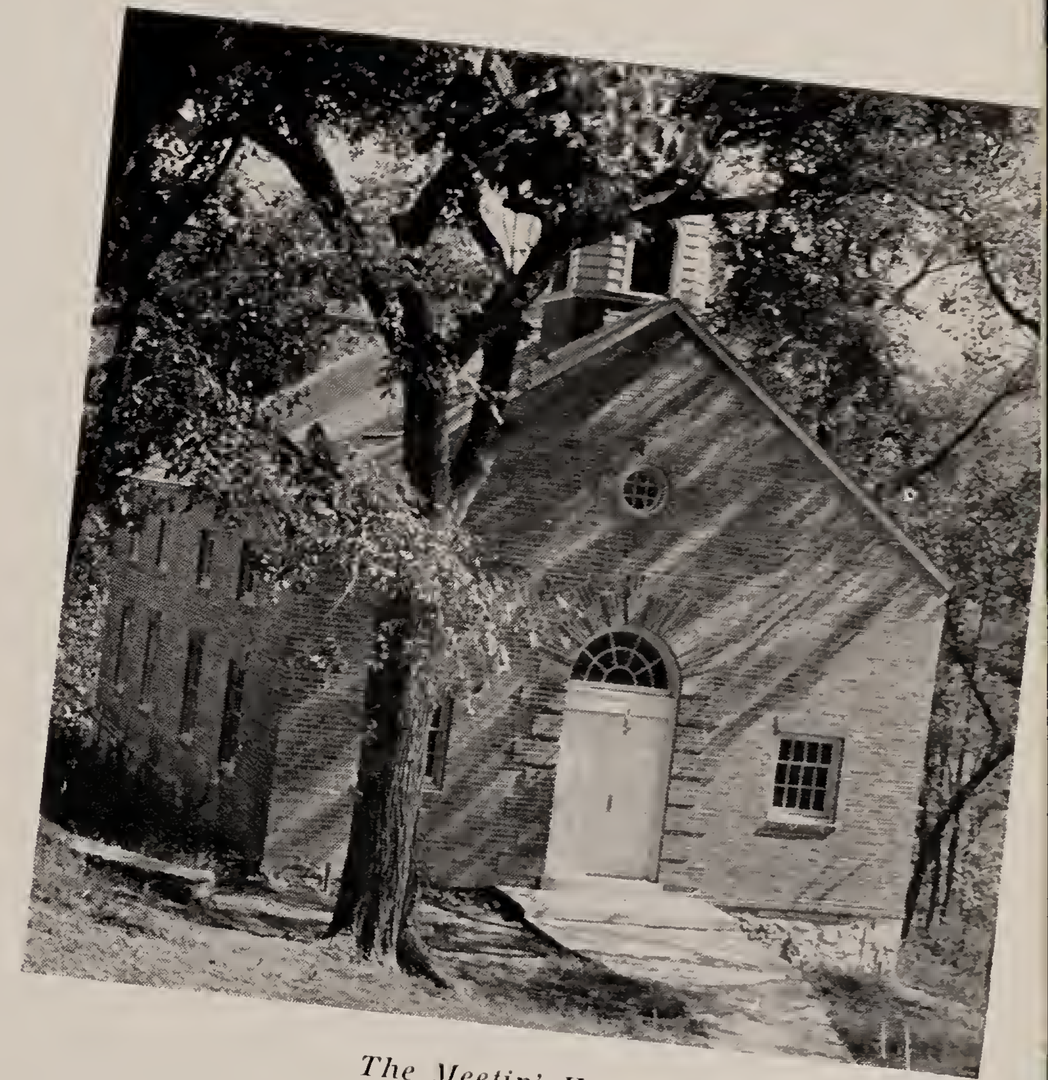
Many will remember the early morning Phalanx devotional meetings climaxed by the Christmas and Easter sunrise services, and the Thursday night meetings when popular speakers from Kansas City and Parkville were presented.

All will remember the five Y-sponsored Sunday evening Church Services, and the intellectual challenges from such men as Kirby Page and Sherwood Eddy, and all will remember the feeds and sings in the meeting house or on observatory hill.

To Dan Thomas and Katherine Parker, the indefatigable presidents, and to George Johnson and Mary Arnold, vice-presidents and Bull Session-Interest Group Managers, extra credit is due. On both cabinets, however, everyone merits recognition because everyone worked.



The Meetin' House

The Ys themselves give their heartiest thanks to Dr. Crull and Mrs. Cannom, ever faithful faculty sponsors and advisors.

Orion Club

"There's a club we love called O.A.C" — how true those words of the club song ring in the heart of every member of the Green and the White. Here is a club of fellows who work together in athletics and social activities equally well. With the club motto of "Never Say Die!" before them, they have striven for and won highest honors both in athletics and social activities.

We look with utmost pride as we see Johnny Phillips, president for the first semester, bring home highest honors from the soccer field; Roger Dickeson, Park's number one actor, serve as vice-president for the first semester, and Bob Trett, one of the outstanding men of the soccer field, in the office of treasurer. For the second semester we see Johnny "Bunk" Hill, an all-around athlete and best worker that the Orions ever had, lead the club as president; George Johnson, one of the best basketball players on the campus, serve as vice-president, and Bob Martin, Sophomore class president whose name appears near the head of the scholarship list, as secretary and then treasurer.

The year of sports saw the Orions reach the top in basketball by winning the Whipple trophy, as Captain George Johnson led to victory the team of P. Hill, J. Hill, Box, Brown, Selle, Van Devander and Clyde. Then there is the Ping-Pong tournament which the Orions also won with such leaders as R. Brown, Wigg and G. Hall.

Dan Thomas, President of the Y, again came forward as a star of the soccer field as did Dan Cardenas. Other members of note are Dick Ross, president of Last but not least is Park's Personality King and leading violinist, Bobby Butler.

With leaders like these and a whole gang of other loyal members, no wonder it's "On Orion, Onward go!"

Aurora Club

In 1913, because of the increasing number of students at Park College, a new literary society was formed. The twenty-eight charter members, according to a 1913 Stylus, "took the name of the Goddess of the Dawn, Aurora, whom the Egyptians believed brought each morning the glad new day, with its warmth and light, to drive away the mystery and darkness of night." For their emblem they chose the Scarab, "that sacred symbol of immortality." For colors they decided upon buff and green, "symbolizing the beautiful freshness of the verdure along the Nile and the far-reaching sands of the Great Desert."

That the club grew to mean a great deal to its members is shown by the fact that Clara Rauber Strickland of the class of 1918 started a similar society in Thomas Jefferson High School, Council Bluffs, Iowa, a few years ago. That society, known as the Nu Omega Sigma, has taken the same guide, emblem, and colors of the Aurora Club. The Nu Omega Sigma was originated as a literary society and still functions as such.

The Aurora Club of today has become a medium of athletic and social functions. Auroras excelling in athletics include Helen Brock, Alice Kagey, Dotty Hinde, Mary Arnold, Jane Clark and Lois Powers. The Club has actively participated in Speedball, Basketball and Softball and was victorious on the Volleyball Court.

Many other campus leaders wear the green and white. Among them are Elizabeth Treeman, President of Herr House; Mary Arnold, YW vice-president; Grace Stevenson, Helen Brock, and Frances Ross, accomplished musicians. Alice Kagey and Betty Jones, actresses, and Gladys Meyer, Faye Evans and Jonnye Ritter, YW leaders.

Especially during rush week the Auroras have contributed to the social life at Park. Freshmen girls were entertained by a taffy pull, a Fiesta buffet dinner, and a formal party.

Although its activities have changed, its basic purpose has remained the same. The warmth and light of the Goddess of the Dawn is symbolized in the diffusion of friendship.

Lowell Club

Successfully guided by Presidents Allen Van Cleve and Reuben Corbin, the Lowell Club winds up another year of wholesome fellowship. Under the able leadership of George Mason the annual rush week proved quite prolific and the fine crop of freshman Lowells have undeniably added to the high quality of our personnel in many ways.

To hear the whole bunch on a typical moonlight serenade singing "I'm Glad that I'm a Lowell," attests to the sincerity of real friendships that have been cemented throughout the year. Speaking of singing—I ask you, who wrote the musical scores for "Mr. Esquire"? Why, none other than our own John Bercovitz. Just mentioning music automatically focuses our minds on Allen Van Cleve, whose voice is probably the most popular one on the campus. As far as singing goes, the whole gang can take a bow, for we were acclaimed the best serenaders during rush week and throughout the year.

In the realm of athletics, fine teamwork, cooperation and fight has characterized every Lowell team. During the basketball season the Orions rooted for us; the Parchies prayed for us and, of course, the Lowells were on our side, so that just about makes it unanimous for Lowell. The name "Loyal Lowells" was unfortunately demonstrated when the entire club went shaveless for a week on a bet. Now that's loyalty! Among the more prominent athletes were Corbin, Beckner, Rice, Van Cleve, Hutchinson, Bercovitz, Buchanan, Dobronte, McClintock, Alwinson, Jones, Booth, Plummer, Mason, McCune and many others.

When it comes to intellect, all hats come off to our own Dean, Hoslett, Copley-Thaw Prexy, who has led the entire student body in four years of scholarship honors. Arnold Stenner, as Editor of the Stylus, led an unprecedented trend toward freedom of expression throughout the year to make our weekly paper better than ever.

Yes, the Lowell Club has had one mighty joyous year of activities—athletics, parties, feeds, etc. The close bond of friendship has united in our organization memories that will long serve us all as a well from which we will always be able to draw refreshment.

G. Elmer Booth

Lucerne Club

If one were vacationing in northern Indiana, he might discover a clear and sparkling stream of icy water trickling down a thickly wooded hillside into a broader stream below. And if he were interested enough to wend his way up the winding path to the top of the hill, he would see, amid the beauty of the woods, a picturesque—rugged, yet artistic—lodge, one which shows by its very make-up that it is someone's dream of happiness. Upon closer observation one could distinguish upon the door these words: "Lucerne Lodge."

A gracious, grey-haired lady opens the door and in reply to his query as to the reason for naming the lodge such, she might tell a story similar to this:

"At my alma mater, Park College, way down on the Missouri River, there is a club which has endeared itself to me through all these years. When I went there as a lonely freshman I found the warmth of true friendship and sincerity in its members from the very first. I liked their cordiality, enthusiasm, and high ideals and joined the club. As each year slipped by I found myself growing more and more a part of that club and found its radiance and genuineness permeating not only my own personality but the entire campus as well. The lessons the club has taught me—lessons of sportsmanship and fair play, as well as many others—have stayed with me these years. So when I was considering possible names for my lodge, the dearest thing in the world to me, my first thoughts were of the Lucerne Club. Hence the name "Lucerne Lodge."

The spirit of which she spoke has lasted throughout the years. The Lucernes have constantly striven to attain these goals that have been set by others. But this year, under the very able leadership of Dorcas Mahaffy and Janet Clark, the club has climbed to new heights of its own by its active participation in all phases of campus life—sports, scholarship, forensics, music, and leadership.

Truly the spirit of the "blue and blues" has made an indelible impression upon Park College.

Margaret Baker

Parchevard Club

"Those fighting Parchies always come through," comments a departing spectator of a basketball game. Yes, those fighting Parchies always do come through because we have that fine spirit of teamwork and cooperation that is traditional in the Parchevard Club. This holds true on field or in gym, in work or in play. We always pull together and manage to come through on top.

The Parchies are far from lacking in leadership in sports, social activities, and even in class work. In sports we have Smith, that rugged individual who has succeeded in driving his soccer team to victory against heavy odds; Lippelmann, the cool-headed tennis champ and all-around athlete; Sears, a jovial cuss with the longest, awkwardest, mile-eatin'est stride ever seen on a track; Gissell, the untiring distance runner, and a long list of others who excel individually and cooperate with their teammates to win. In the social field there's Bern Ramey with a hot trumpet and a magnificent personality; Dick Ertzman, who plans the parties that the Parchevards are known for; Dunseth, Crawford, Edwards, Jimmy Smith, Bob Mack and many others who are known on the campus as "regular-fellers." Believe it or not, the Parchies go in for brain activity too. We have Jack Oliver, a debater and a straight A man; Richards, ditto; Russ Graham, the philosophical musician, and even one or two others with grades above average. (Ed. note: Did you forget, Harry, that you were Oliver's colleague in maintaining Park's high standard in debate and that you were also on the all-star soccer and basketball teams?)

In conclusion, it may be said that the fighting spirit that has become traditional with the Parchies has been re-echoed in this year's club, and, judging

Calliopean Club

Club activity contributes much to campus life from rush week to the last party of the year. Along with the Lucerne and Aurora clubs the Calliopeans have once more given Freshman girls the "this is so seldom" rush of their lives. Breakfast on observatory hill, a kid party, and the barn dance were the highlights of Callio activity.

After sign-ups, the club spot-light was transferred from the Freshmen to sports. Their ranks interspersed by new members, the Callios sent teams onto the softball diamond, the speedball field, and the volleyball court. Purple and gold waved victorious as the Callios carried off top honors in basketball. Reasons for their sharing in the glory of intramural athletics at Park include these outstanding athletes: Lurlene Irwin, Shirley Gresham, Olivett England, Martha Lou Hock, Ruth Riggs, and Betty Anderson.

Callios entered the courts of royalty when Virginia Smith Lane was crowned Snow-Ball Queen, when Jean Erwin was elected Queen of Personality and when the Sophomores selected Paula Swigart as their most beautiful.

Blood of the Callios has added life to the weekly publications of the Stylus through Betty Morris, assistant Editor.

The club's representation in the various realms of campus life was rounded out by Kitu Parker's splendid leadership of the Y. W. C. A., and Dorothy Schrader's forensic achievements that make all Park proud of her.

Betty Sloan, member of the Board of Publications; Jeanette Corn, Editor of girls' sports for the Narva and Stylus; and Marjorie McClymonds are a few of the other campus leaders whose loyalty is Calliopean.

Throughout the year all of the club presidents have striven to eliminate the jealousy, antagonism and ill-will which can so easily exist between rival societies. Presidents Jean Erwin and La Vonne White have guided the efforts of the Callios toward this end.

Something of the spirit of the club is expressed by lines from two club songs:—

Loyalty to her brother club:
"To Parchevard Club our hearts are true."

Personality of her members:
"She's got the rep, the pep, and all it takes,
And does she rate, oh boy, oh does she ever rate."

Zeta Kappa Epsilon was founded in 1931 by Professor Magers as a local honorary history fraternity. Its membership is limited to juniors and seniors of high scholastic standing. The ideals of the organization are expressed in three Greek words whose initial letters form the name of the fraternity: Zeta for research, Kappa for the spirit of world citizenship, and Epsilon for honorable distinction. Dr. D. D. Parker is the sponsor.

The most ambitious project undertaken by the fraternity this year was the establishment of chapters in this area to make it a regional organization in anticipation of becoming a national fraternity sometime in the future. In addition to the Park chapter, there are active units at Monmouth College, William Jewell College, and Central Missouri State Teachers College.

This spring the first issue of the Journal of the fraternity appeared containing a paper by a member of each chapter, chosen through a local contest. In addition to the historical studies, news-notes from the various chapters were published. Dean Hoslett edited the Journal. It is hoped that the establishment of this medium for the publication of historical papers written by undergraduate students will do much to stimulate interest in scholarship, which is the principal aim of the organization.

ALPHA THETA PI

To provide social training, to give experience in carrying responsibility, to develop personality, leadership, initiative, social poise, and a professional interest in Home Economics is the purpose of Alpha Theta Pi, honorary Home Economics Fraternity.

The members of Alpha Theta Pi are junior and senior girls who show interest and ability in this field and who are taking either a major or a minor in Home Economics. This year there are sixteen members with Miss Margaret E. Lorimer and Mrs. Hazel S. Baxter sponsoring the organization.

Outstanding meetings of the club this year included the annual initiation service, a Valentine party and a program and buffet dinner in the homes of the sponsors. The club also gave an Irish dinner in Home Economics rooms of Alumni at which a number of the sophomore girls were guests. At this meeting Miss Ellen Gilchrist of Parkville related her experiences in New Zealand.

The advancement of music in the small college and a better appreciation of the beautiful in music are the goals toward which the Mu Sigma builds. Under the leadership of Bob Butler and the guidance of Dr. and Mrs. Griffith, Mu Sigma has tried to attain these aims this year in such a way that the entire campus might benefit.

The organization has undertaken the sponsorship of the Gordon Felts Memorial Scholarship which is to be awarded each year to an outstanding musical student in a local contest. Paul Fink of this year's graduating class was the first person to whom this scholarship was awarded. Each spring Mu Sigma sponsors a music contest between the various social clubs on the campus. This year the fraternity held Sunday afternoon record concerts which "pre-vued" the following program of the Kansas City Philharmonic Orchestra.

The Park College Mu Sigma membership is limited to the fifteen upperclassmen who have contributed most to the musical life of the campus.

THETA ALPHA PHI

"Lights! Places! Curtain going up!"

Familiar words, these, to all who love the odor of grease paint and the glare of spotlights, and each year they become more familiar as Park College dramatics forge ahead.

The sponsoring group on the campus is the Missouri Beta chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, the national honorary dramatic fraternity. Its avowed purpose is the fostering of an interest in dramatics and whether you like to pound a nail, wield a paint brush, or walk the boards, there is a place for you.

The season of 1939-40 started off with J. M. Barrie's Quality Street, with sweet and shy Phoebe, quaint and lovable Susan, the "dashing" Mr. Brown, and the three meddlesome old maids who caused all the trouble in the first place.

From this we turned to the presentation of Rachel Crothers' Susan and God, the story of a woman with too much charm, caught in a web of her own making, who finds that God does "very peculiar things sometimes."

To Hugh Schuster must be given the credit for the most interesting sets Park has seen in recent years. His faithfulness, sincerity and hard work should be appreciated by all.

Professor Carl Dallinger proved our guiding light and his sympathetic advice and supervision deserve our heartfelt thanks.

In the past year the Iota chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national scouting service fraternity, again became active after a lapse of four years. A membership drive was conducted in the early part of the year which yielded five new members and two transfers from other chapters. Last fall three members of Park's chapter attended a district A. P. O. conference in Columbia, Mo., to get direction in service work on the campus.

In February, the chapter cooperated with the Federal Bureau of Investigation by taking the fingerprints of the entire student body and faculty to be placed in the civilian fingerprint files in Washington, D. C.

The flying of the American flag from the flag pole by the entrance to the campus is also the work of the boys of A. P. O., and we anticipate soon to have the school flag flying beneath it.

The chapter already has its plans mapped out for the coming school year. The college can look forward with assurance to a great deal of service from the men of Alpha Phi Omega in the 1940-41 term.

PI KAPPA DELTA

Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary speech fraternity, has as its aim "persuasion—beautiful and just." This fraternity admits members who have represented the school in intercollegiate speech competition, and have shown a high standard of excellence in public speaking. It also promotes forensic activity on the campus by holding a speech festival each year and recognizing speech achievements. This year over twenty students entered the local speech festival. Four types of public speaking were featured: Extemporaneous speaking, humorous reading, dramatic reading and poetry reading. The winning contestants were as follows:

Extemporaneous Speaking—Allen Van Cleve, "The Indifferent Voter as a Threat to Democracy."

Dramatic Reading—Irvine Stirton, a cutting from "Ah Wilderness."

Poetry Reading—Wade Rubick, "Gunga Din."

Humorous Reading—Richard Ertzman, a cutting from Ogden Nash's I'm a Stranger Here Myself.

Books were given to the winners in each division except poetry reading. Wade Rubick represented Park at the poetry reading contest at the Midwest Speech Tourney, competing for the Ted Malone trophy, and placing fourth among thirteen contestants. Representing Park at the National Pi Kappa Delta tournament held at Knoxville, Tennessee, were Dorothy Schrader and Janet Clark, women's debate, Harry Stiles and Jack Oliver, men's debate, and Hugh Schuster, student assembly and oratory.

THOUGHT WORDS AND ACTION

Front row: J. Clark, D. Schrader, H. Fischer, M. Baker.

Starting with seventeen members, the debate squad this year engaged in ninety-five intercollegiate debates. Out of sixty-seven decision debates engaged in, forty-one, or over sixty per cent, were won.

Four major tournaments were attended during the year: the William Jewell Practice Tournament, Midwest Debate Tournament, Missouri State Tournament, and the National Pi Kappa Delta speech tourney, at all of which Park won high honors. In the William Jewell tournament, Harry Stiles and Jack Oliver were one of six undefeated teams out of forty teams present, and Helen Fisher and Margaret Baker won three out of four debates. At the Midwest Debate Tournament both senior teams, Dottie Schrader and Janet Clark, and Harry Stiles and Jack Oliver, were undefeated in their division. At the Missouri state debate tourney, Dottie Schrader and Janet Clark won first place in the women's division, being undefeated in five debates, while David Teener and Rex Scott won four out of six debates to place high in the junior college division. To climax a very successful season, Dottie Schrader and Janet Clark were one of five teams out of seventy colleges and universities of the nation to receive the highest possible rating of superior at the National Pi Kappa Delta tournament held at Knoxville, Tennessee.

THE SQUAD

Front row: E. Laughlin. D. Schrader. J. Clark, M. Baker, B. Jessen. Second row: Prof. Dallinger. J. Oliver. C. Horni. H. Stiles. H. Schuster, R. Lippelmann, D. Teener.

Also, a number of audience debates were held throughout the year. A serits of debates were held with Wentworth Military Academy before leading businessmen's clubs at the President, Continental, and Muehlebach Hotels in Kansas City with Harry Stiles and Jack Oliver representing Park. This team also spoke before the student body of Kirksville State Teachers College and at chapel at Central College in Fayette, Missouri.

Likewise, in oratory and extemporaneous speaking Park College has done very well. In the state Peace Oratorical contest, Dottie Schrader won second. In the Missouri State Debate Coach Association she won first and brought back a silver cup for the college. Eleanor Laughlin, representing Park for the first time in oratory, after winning second in the local Old Line Oratorical Contest, won first in the State Old Line Contest in the women's division, and represented the state of Missouri at Augustana College in Rock Island, Illinois, on April twenty-fifth. Wade Rufick placed second in the state in the men's division.

In extemporaneous speaking, Jack Oliver placed third out of eight schools in the Missouri Debate Coach Association, while Dottie Schrader rated excellent in the National Pi Kappa Delta contest.

The first trip of the year taken by the Park-Lawrence band was to Weston, Missouri, where they played for a big tobacco show that boasted agricultural exhibits, high school exhibits, prizes, a tobacco auction, and all the trimmings. Later in the year they enjoyed another good time playing for an ice hockey game at the Pla-Mor in Kansas City. Other trips were taken to North Kansas City and several to Kansas City high schools.

The addition of a lot of new music to the band folios created new interest and enthusiasm in the band work this year. Cooperation and practice have knitted the large trumpet and wood-wind sections closely together and helped to make the band an outstanding organization on the campus.

DIRECTOR

Dr. Claude Rader

The Park College Orchestra under the direction of Dr. Claude Rader has presented a number of very pleasing concerts at churches and high schools in Kansas City and elsewhere.

The music played has been of a high standard. Several symphonies were learned and a great deal of time spent on a Mendelssohn concerto in which Bob Butler took the solo part. In addition to one of his own compositions, "The Gypsy," Dr. Rader has presented in concert his arrangement of some Kreutzer Etudes. Two concert favorites of the season have been "The Surprise Symphony" and "The Barber of Seville."

The orchestra plans a formal concert to end a most successful year and looks forward to even greater accomplishments next year. Said a teacher in East High School in Kansas City, "They are real professionals."

Probably no other one thing adds as much to the spirit of worship, not once in a while, but every Sunday, as the College Choir. Singing from either balcony or chancel, accompanied or a capella, the choir each Sunday inspires the congregation with an introit, responses and an anthem, and closes the service with the beautiful Sevenfold Amen by John Stainer. A distinctive achievement of this choir is its effective a capella chanting, which is really much more difficult than it appears.

Early in the fall the choir presented the Kyrie Eleison, Et Incarnatus Est, Crucifixus, and Sanctus from Bach's B Minor Mass, and at Christmas time in addition to supplying special music for two morning services, rendered several of the choruses from Handel's immortal "Messiah." The Easter music included "Worthy Is the Lamb" from the Messiah, and the year's activities closed with the singing of Bach's cantata, "Bide With Us," at the commencement exercises.

COLLEGE CHOIR

A CAPPELLA CHOIR

The A Cappella Choir, a group of about twenty voices selected to do more intensive work without instrumental accompaniment, is also Park's traveling choir, having presented many programs at Kansas City churches. It was heard most frequently from the balcony of the chapel, where some very beautiful choral effects, both with and without the use of the new antiphonal organ, were attained. Most outstanding among this choir's performances was the rendition of Mozart's Mass in G. The women of this choir, as a choral group, gave Gasperini's Mass, and the men as a chorus delivered several very pleasing programs.

The A Cappella Choir is distinctive in that nearly half of its members are soloists of ability. These include Mary Elizabeth Fleming, Virginia Bateman, Helen Brock, Zona Schroeder, Paul Fink, Glenn Ogden, Frances Good, Walter Brink and Allen Van Cleve.

Both choirs are under the direction of Dr. Charles L. Griffith.

Thrice weekly in addition to the two Sunday Church services the heterogeneous student body of Park meet on common ground in the beautiful Graham Tyler Chapel for a brief period of worship. In addition to the short devotional service, the week day chapel services bring before the student body speakers and artists of high caliber. They also serve to present student musicians in recitals and to vary the wearysome teacher-pupil relationships of the classroom by presenting the faculty members as guest speakers.

Under Dr. Adams the Sunday services, with their beautiful music, well led worship services, dignity and reverence, are truly inspiring.

CHAPEL PROGRAMS

"In the battle between Washington and Parkville, I'm for Parkville," says Merle Thorp, editor of Nation's Business. "We are coming to depend too much upon the government to do things for us."

The building of Christian personality was the theme around which Mr. Roy E. Dickerson built his class lectures and chapel addresses during his week at Park.

"Hitler caused the war, but the Allies caused Hitler . . . In the war between aggressor and oppressor, I am for neither one. I'm against them both." Kirby Page's thoroughgoing pacifism challenges our minds and hearts.

"Go south, young man, and plan to stay." Alfred M. Landon sees South America as the frontier for ambitious young men. Mr. Landon, Hubert Herring and Dr. J. Fred Rippy led Park's Institute of South American Affairs.

"I have seen the Christian religion work in all parts of the world and under the severest persecution." The words of Sherwood Eddy, internationally known traveler, lecturer, author and social thinker were convincing and inspiring.

"Our battles are being fought in the realm of ideas as well as on the battlefields. We must resist any trend that will destroy the sacredness of the individual." Arthur M. Hyde addressed the third annual All-Men Banquet.

AND VISITING CELEBRITIES

The Royal Evergreens, under the direction of Bern Ramey, filled the need for a dance orchestra at Park this year. It was a tough assignment to get any order from the group that came to the first tryout, but under Bern's baton the eleven piece band made steady progress and more than justified themselves when they sent feet tapping in the Commons and thrilled the dancers at the annual Snow Ball. The most professionally conducted of any Park dance band so far, they were prevented from appearing more often only by the lack of proper arrangements of music for their group.

The men of Park College are deeply grateful to Mr. Fritschy for the opportunity to act as ushers at the annual Fritschy Concert Series. Those men who are especially interested in music are chosen for this work, and are privileged to hear during the winter season many great artists of the concert stage.

This year was especially productive of celebrated musicians, ranging from Pagliughi at the beginning of the series to John Charles Thomas at the end, and including such famous artists as the Lhevinnes, Albert Spaulding, and Alexander Brailowsky. The highlights of the year, however, were the special concerts given by Marian Anderson, Nelson Eddy, and Jeanette MacDonald. Since Music Hall was filled to capacity for these latter concerts, several other Park men were called upon to usher.

Dr. Griffith, Mr. Renfro, and Mr. Todd were in charge of the ushers.

The history of the 1940 Narva dates from early Spring in 1939, when no less than a half a dozen engravers, cover-makers, etc., first made us feel the importance of our newly awarded position a la free dinners and sales talk. All were very patient in explaining to us the difference between a copper halftone and a rubber stamp, and why our hastily assembled ideas for the Narva's make up would make it look more like a seed catalog than a yearbook.

Much of the history is recorded in manuscript form in the reams of announcements and threats which were read about twice daily in the Commons, and in those little polite slips of paper saying "payable at the Narva office" which you probably found monthly in your mailbox.

Then, too, there was the era of picture pasting in which we had as much rubber cement spread from the ceiling to our shirt tail inclusive as we did on the mounting board.

NARVA, 1940

This was followed by the final era of writing, reading, censoring, etc., ad infinitum of copy.

Among the great figures in the Narva's history is Secretary of the Treasury, Ernie Stouffer, that well dressed, dignified gentleman seen hitch hiking in and out of Kansas City about three times a week. He is hard working, competent and very patient despite the fact that we bawled his accounts up about once a week.

Dorothy Schrader not only took complete charge of the individual Senior and Junior write ups, but also worked tirelessly at mounting pictures, rewriting copy, and otherwise making herself indispensable. Jonnye Ritter and Jane Turner helped to give the Narva that feminine touch.

Pictorially speaking, the Narva was exceedingly fortunate in having two photographers of professional calibre in Photographissimo Dan McDonald and Homer L. Williams, who are as fine a pair of picture makers as ever upset a tray of hypo. With the exception of Social Clubs, Band, and Choirs, all the group shots in the Narva are their work.

To Ross Brown and Jeanette Corn for Sports, to Ruth Bittner and Bertha Emmett for bookkeeping, to all the stenographers, ad writers and salesmen, to D. F. Feerer and Earl Smith for their invaluable efforts on engraving and printing work, to all those whose names accompany their articles in this book, and to the Board of Publications, the Editor and the student body owe a debt of gratitude for making possible this Narva.

THE PARK

It has been said that no good Park student (or faculty member either, for that matter) is complete without one. We refer of course to that weekly copy of the Stylus, student newspaper.

Written and edited by students, published with the aid of students, it has been called "the voice of the student body." Like most voices, it feels the effects of the weather at times, or becomes a bit hoarse, or finds itself off-pitch, or occasionally speaks a bit too loudly for the comfort of its listeners (in this case readers). But in the main, it's a pretty good voice.

The Stylus is concerned chiefly with campus happenings—the news of our world on the hill. In addition, however, its pages carry historical features, editorial comments, reviews, opinions and special columns.

During 1939-40, the Stylus has been a member of the Associated Collegiate Press of America.

Its appearance has been enlivened by frequent pictures, by the use of bodoni headlines, and especially by the redesigning of the editorial page, which was accomplished under the supervision of Mickey Sharp.

The Stylus this year was fortunate in its staff, combining the experience of many veterans with the talents of a group of alert, eager, and enthusiastic freshmen. In the faithful recording of news and the handling of their respective departments, too much credit cannot be given to Jack Oliver, Dan MacDonald, Homer L. Williams, Jr., Dorothy Hinde, George Mason. Everett Porter, Ken Hickman, Janet Lowe, Joy Listrom, Jeanette Corn, Alice Skillman, and Grace Louise Seifert.

Faithful, clever and good-humored in their often thankless task of reporting were Dorothy Belders, Rose Ella Chapman, Florence Gustaw, Gertrude Hastie, Ruth Nelson, Margaret Fulton, Mary Elizabeth Price, Phil Gurney, Audrey Wallace, Dorothy Roberts, Ruth Bittner, Julia Coit, Elsie Hart, and Dotty Reed.

STYLUS

No Stylus review would be complete without mentioning the ever-faithful Florence and Joe Anderson, linotypists and invaluable assistants in the Print Shop, and Dan Beckner and Bob Thorp, typesetters, compositors, and linotypists. Their technical skill and advice added much to the success of the paper.

Occasional contributors and columnists — Roger Dickeson, Bill Dunseth, Walter Mills, Elmer Booth, Jean Erwin, Dick Ertzman, Basil Jones, Betty Davis and others —enlivened the pages of the Stylus with wit and humor from time to time.

Always available as sources of information, friendly criticism and useful advice were Dr. William Lindsay Young, Dean W. F. Sanders, Prof. Ethel Lyon, members of the Board of Publications. and the members of the faculty.

The Stylus depended for its readability upon Mr. George W. Grattan, superintendent of the Print Shop, whose standards of craftsmanship are a source of inspiration to all who work with him.

Financially, Park's weekly paper was guided by Bob Peret during the first semester and by Ross Brown during the second, with Jane Fogg assisting capably and cheerfully. Their capable handling of funds brought the Stylus, a non-profit organization, to the end of the season with a surplus.

THE INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB by Jeanne Allison

In a year so fraught with events of international significance, the International Relations Club has sought to bring before its members speakers of recognized authority. The year's meetings were begun by the hearing of reports from the Park and Kansas City delegates who had attended the Grinnell summer conference. Later in the year the members were privileged to be entertained in the Kansas City home of Mrs. C. S. Demaree where Mr. Henry C. Haskell, Editor of the KANSAS CITY STAR, was the guest speaker.

Alone and in conjunction with other campus organizations, the Club has invited other speakers to contribute to the students their knowledge and viewpoints on international affairs.

The Club is sponsored by Professor Magers. Its officers are Jeanne Allison, President; Harry Lunn, Vice-President; and Janet Lowe, Secretary-Treasurer.

THE SOCIOLOGY CLUB by Betty Jane Harlan

The Sociology Club was organized under the direction of Professor Williams for the purpose of stimulating active interest in the problems of social relations. Recognizing the importance of Sociology in modern life, we invited to the campus speakers prominent in Kansas City for their contributions to informal group education, social hygiene, and penal institutions, among whom was an agent from the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The club officers were Betty Jane Harlan, President; Homer L. Williams, Vice-President; Ken Pollick, Secretary; and Basil Jones, Treasurer.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS by Mary Ogden

NOT QUANTITY BUT QUALITY is our motto. Because of conflicting schedules Le Cercle Francais had difficulty in getting started. The meetings we had, once started, however, were very interesting and enjoyed by all.

Our most successful project was the presentation of our Parisian Puppets in "Little Red Riding Hood," and "The Newly Weds" at the A. A. U. W. stunt night program.

With the great aid of the first year French students we sponsored the singing of Christmas songs in the Commons, and we hope to continue in the future to stimulate that old cry, VIVE LA FRANCE!!

The officers are Mary Ogden, President; Dan Cardenas, Vice-President; Harry Simmons, Secretary; and Betty Sloan, Treasurer.

THE FAUSTIAN SOCIETY by Mary Elizabeth Fleming

The Faustian Society was organized to stimulate the interests of those wishing to know more of the language and culture of the German people. A student is received as a new member after having taken one year of German, his work being of high quality. Miss Elsa Guueneberg, Associate Professor of German, is the sponsor of the club.

The annual WEIHNACHTSPIEL was presented at Christmas time with Mary Ogden in the role of Maria and Frances Good in the role of Josef. The supporting parts were taken by students of both upper division and beginning German classes.

Officers of the club are Mary Elizabeth Fleming, President; Helen Brock, Vice-President; and Marian Noble, Secretary-Treasurer.

THE WAKEFIELD SCIENCE CLUB by James Lawhead

The Wakefield Science Club stands out as one of the largest and most successful organizations on the campus. Its purpose is to offer an opportunity for qualified students to plan and participate in programs which present the latest developments in the various natural sciences, and to stimulate interest in the natural sciences.

Recently the club has attracted the attention of many non-members by means of its open meetings which are usually of a non-technical nature. By combining the several natural sciences into one organization it has been possible for the club to preset programs which are interesting to the entire student body.

Officers: Manly Mace, President; James Lawhead, Vice-President; Marjorie McClymonds, Secretary; Glenn Hall, Treasurer.

THE PHILOSOPHY CLUB by Russell Graham

The Philosophy Club is the proving ground for student ideas about man and his universe. The club has exhibited considerable vitality ever since its founding in 1937-38, the "freshman" year of its faculty sponsor, Dr. C. W. Cannom, at Park College. But no year has been better than the present one.

Engaging in fruitful debate has taken place over many vital topics at the club's monthly meetings, including: "An Orthodox Christian Philosophy," "What Is Wrong With the Church," "Epicureanism," and "The Living Philosophy of a Park College Professor."

Nothing if not "eclectic" (meaning interested in everything), the club has also derived great Epicurean satisfaction from the refreshment programs which have climaxed each meeting at the homes of Mrs. C. W. Cannom and Mrs. William L. Young, who have been hostesses to the club this year.

THE STUDENT VOLUNTEERS by Clara Sinclair

The Student Volunteer group, an active religious organization on the campus, meets every Sunday evening after the regular Church service for an hour of Christian fellowship.

The primary purpose of the group is to promote interest among the students in home and foreign missions. The Student Volunteers have enjoyed many fine missionary speakers this year, as well as helpful student-conducted meetings.

In the past Park has sent out many graduates into the mission field and it is the hope of this group that even more may be sent in the future.

The officers were: Oscar Lutz, President; Mary Ogden and Clara Sinclair, Vice-Presidents, and Marjorie Jacoby, Secretary-Treasurer.

THE ENGLISH CLUB by Harvey Gissell

The English Club is primarily for those who evince a genuine interest in all phases of the field of English, not the least of which is creative writing. English appreciation is the keynote of the club and membership is by invitation not only to English majors but to all upper-division students expressing interest in the field. Monthly meetings are held usually in the homes of the faculty of the English department where tasty refreshments have become traditional, the annual Christmas party and the Commons dinner being outstanding.

The meetings provide a wide variety of programs, including ballad singing, fireside tours of literary spots, interesting book reviews and the reading of the creative efforts of the members.

Officers: Jerome Cushman, President; Helen Brock, Secretary.

THE BUS STUDENTS

In the spring of 1938, Park College sent out announcements telling of a new plan whereby Kansas City students could attend Park College and still live at home. Many Kansas City families read these announcements and on September 13, 1938, the big orange and black bus started with its first load of students for the college—about twenty young hopefuls from Kansas City and vicinity. Since that day when the first bus students alighted from their fiery steed and ascended Mackay steps to enroll, the old bus has fulfilled its mission more than eight hundred times. (It still runs, too.)

At the close of the year the bus boasted of two graduating seniors, one wedding, a flat tire, and a year of fun for all.

Last fall, because of the success of the plan, the bus started on its second year and brought another group of hopefuls to the campus. Now that this plan or the "campus infant" as it might be called is two years old, it is about time that the rest of the campus found out something about it. We bus students are all for it because we are part of that plan. It is up to us to make the plan a success so that it will become a permanent part of the college. It was a great idea because it enables students to go to Park who might otherwise be unable to attend.

The bus ride offers a lot of good times in itself. Every day on the way in and out we sing—everything from I've Been Working on the Railroad to Schubert's Serenade inclusive. Nor does living in the City deprive us of the pleasures of extra curricular activities. Our members are found in the band and orchestra, the glee clubs, and the Fritschy ushers. The Assistant Business Manager of the Narva is a bus student. We are loyal social and departmental club members as well, and some of us have even ventured as far as the Dean's Honor Roll.

A tradition of the bus students which started two years ago and continues today is the close friendship which grows out of this experience, and we are sure that it will continue.

May we take this opportunity to thank those people who have made the "bus plan" possible. We thank President Young and the Administration for their help, Boss Goodwin for seeing that transportation facilities were always at hand, and those members of the faculty who very understandingly heard the excuse, "Sorry I didn't get to class, Professor, I missed the bus," or the more frequent one, "Sorry I'm late, Miss Wilson, the bus just arrived."

Lastly, we thank Ralph "Pud" Patterson, our driver and friend, who delivers us safely day after day.

House lights! There goes the curtain on the first play of the year, "Quality Street." Gossipy old maids, two very sweet ladies, and a dashing young officer take us back to the 17th century in England as James M. Barrie's whimsical story is unraveled before us. A quaint blue and white sitting room, which is turned into a school room with dunce cap and rule, provides the major setting for the story that has both pathos and humor. Phoebe is made to live through the capable performance of Micky Sharp, as once again Roger Dickison adapts himself to the leading role of "Valentine Brown." Betty Morris gives us Phoebe's very sweet older sister who timidly receives a kiss from the "dashing Mr. Brown" as the final curtain is rung down.

Fresh from Broadway, the play "Susan and God" was presented just before spring recess. In gushing words and flighty gestures, Jean Gray as Susan told her sophisticated friends how she found God. Utterly unconscious of the meaning of her words, Susan insincerely is led to an appreciation of her husband, Barrie, played by Roger Dickeson, and her neglected daughter, played by Beverly Jessen, and to a real and sincere understanding of God. Working for Honors in Speech, Director Arabella Fry did an outstanding job of casting, interpreting and producing this difficult play. Sets made under the direction of Professor Dallinger of the Speech Department set new standards for Park play production—a terrace with two glass brick walls, a breath-taking blue bedroom, and a dark quiet living room befitting the more serious moments of the play.

A complete change in pace took place as Mr. Esquire for the second year took the Park Spotlight. Dictators, the eight honeys, usherettes, skits, and original music constituted this all-male production. Originality and initiative centered in the author of dialogues, Bill Dunseth; song writer and orchestra leader, John Bercovitz, and dance creator and general director, Dick Ertzman.

When seniors have become mournful, when underclassmen have become wide-eyed and worried, when alumni return searching for the good old times, graduation week will see the production of the final all-school play, "The Far-off Hills," rounding out a well-balanced year in dramatics.

If the recent dropping of intercollegiate football by Chicago University indicates the future trend in college athletics, Park College is years ahead of the times. Many thoughtful educators today are wondering whether the purpose of athletics is not for the health and recreation of the students themselves, a philosophy of athletics which Park has consistently supported by her system of intramural, interclub sports competition.

Incoming freshmen and outsiders anticipate a lack of any sports competition worthy of interest when they learn that Park's athletics are intra-mural. If the witnessing of a Parchie-Lowell basketball game doesn't destroy that illusion completely, the witnessing of a Parchie-Orion soccer game will.

We cannot boast of sports of the caliber found in universities or even smaller colleges who have intercollegiate athletics; we do point proudly to the high percentage of student participation, the intense yet wholesome rivalry, and the intelligent ratio of mind to body which Park's athletic program promotes. Ladies and Gentlemen — the Sports Parade!

EXERCISE FOR ALL

Mason Hickman Sears Lippelmann Smith Booth Phillips

The M. A. A. is made up of two outstanding athletes from each club, headed by a president elected by the student body. Its ideal is to carry on and further sportsmanship on the campus. Under the supervision of Professor Robbins the M. A. A. has charge of all sports, arranging practices and games. It is made up this year of Ray Lippelmann, president; Smith and Sears, Parchies; Mason and Booth, Lowells, and G. Johnson and Dan Thomas, Orions, succeeding J. W. Phillips and Ken Hickman for the second semester.

The W. A. A. is composed of all college women who have earned at least one hundred points in college athletics. At the close the volley ball season the W. A. A. boasted 57 members.

By the end of the basketball season pins had been presented to Green, Metheny, Hitchcock, Hinde, Sinclair, Piper and Jane Clark, who had earned 500 points. At the same time, five girls had earned 1,000 points and were rewarded with a Park sweater: Mahaffey, Janet Clark, Gresham, Powers and Brock. More girls will receive these awards after volley ball and soft ball season.

The W. A. A. is under the supervision of Miss Clements and is a local chapter of the national organization.

Officers for the year were: President, Belle Mahaffey; vice-president, Janet Clark; secretary, Katherine Parker, and treasurer, Pat Schmidt.

The starting whistle in the first basketball game of the year marked the beginning of the battle for supremacy between the Calliopeans and Lucernes which continued throughout the entire season. The Lucernes, with their deadly combination of Mahaffey, Green and Clark, played a strong offensive game, and in the first two contests defeated both the Callios and Auroras. The Callios, with an entirely new forward lineup, started out slowly, depending primarily upon their defense, until the forwards gained a little experience and whipped into shape. The Auroras were unable to gain a decision, undoubtedly due to the fact that all the players were new and not accustomed to playing together.

The second round of games really started the ball rolling. The Callios, with their fast, accurate shots and their dependable guards finally humbled the Lucernes in one of the best games of the season. The Purple and Gold fought their way to victory in each remaining game and triumphantly closed the season with the championship cup.

The fast passes and accurate shots of the winners when coupled with their tight defense proved deadly to all competition and showed real championship material.

SOCCER

The thud of hard-toed shoes against the soccer balls announced another season of spirited competition in Park's major sport. Captains Smith, Hickman and Bercovitz started early to whip their squads of veterans and tyros into smooth, consistent and cooperative teams. Sports prophets were inclined to pick the green and white with its high percentage of able veterans and promising freshmen, but the heated competition of the soccer field is the scene of upset expectations as well as of spilled players.

Led by Johnny Smith, center half, who also played almost every other position on the team except goalie, the Parchies crashed through to another season's victory in soccer. The Orions, favored to win in early season competition, failed utterly as far as the Parchies were concerned, failing to defeat them a single time in the three rounds.

In the first round the Orions got off to a flying start, defeating the Lowells, 4-0, in the initial game of the season. When the Lowells came through to tie the Parchies 1-1 in the second game, it looked like a cinch for the Orions, but then those pesky Parchies booted the Orions to defeat, 2-0.

In the second round, a fighting Orion team led by Dan Thomas and J. W. Phillips on the field, and Captain Ken Hick-

SPEEDBALL

The third year of speedball at Park produced another thrilling season when the Lucernes triumphantly marched to victory without a single defeat. Their smooth forward line of Green, Mahaffey, Clark and Cook ran down the field for a goal as smoothly and nonchalantly as if they had no opponents. This overwhelming offensive, coupled with the strong defensive backfield of Morton, Baker and Fulton proved to be too powerful for the Callios and Auroras. The Callios, with what should have been an excellent team with Sinclair, Hock, Irwin, Riggs and Anderson in the forward line and Barnett, Corn, Turner, Gresham and Piper in the backfield, just couldn't click, partly due to the fact that many of the players were new and inexperienced at speedball. They did, however, defeat the Auroras twice. The Auroras had several strong players but, like the Callios, they lacked experience and cooperation. Jane Clark, Kagey, Brock, Ogden and Arnold were outstanding players.

The Lucernes had every requisite for a winning team. Capably led by Flossie Green, they were well-balanced, smooth, good kickers, fast and all were steady and consistent. The team included F. Green, Mahaffey, Clark, Cook, Wilcox, M. Green, Kennedy, Baker, Morton, Montaldo and Fulton.

man with a stiff hip on the bench, defeated the Lowells, 2-0, but the Parchies tromped on both the Lowells and Orions, winning 4-1 and 4-0.

In the first game of the final round the Lowells tied the Orions 1-1 to squelch all Orion hope of winning the pennant. The Parchies then proceeded to eek out two one-point victories, defeating the Lowells 1-0 and the Orions 3-2.

The Parchies really deserved their victory this year, considering their amazing defensive record of only four goals scored against them in six games. They also led in the scoring, with 15 goals. The Orions had almost an even average with 9 goals scored, and 10 scored against them, while the Lowells had only 3 goals scored, with 13 goals chalked against them.

The soccer all-star team was made up of six Parchevards, three Orions and two Lowells. Dan Thomas, deceptive dribbler and excellent team man, was picked for the third year to head the Orion delegation and was honored with the position of captain on the all-star team. Trett, a powerful fullback, and Cardenas, flashy left-footed wing, were also chosen to represent the Orions.

In a play-off round, the Orions finally came through to win the basketball championship and the Whipple trophy in a hectic season of overtime games and one point victories. The Orions started out as the pre-season favorites, but it seemed as if the experts were to be proved wrong when the Parchies won all their games in the first two rounds. However, the Orions kept within striking distance by defeating the Lowells.

In the third round, the order was reversed, and the Parchies dropped games to both the Lowells and the Orions, the Orions again defeating the Lowells to share the lead with the Parchies. This proved to be the first of the Parchie-Orion games that did not go into overtime, the first taking one extra five-minute period and the second taking two.

In the championship game, the Orions, led by curly-headed Captain George Johnson and Paul Hill, voted the best Freshman, found themselves clicking for the first time on both offense and defense, jumping to an early lead of 9-0, and coming through to an easy victory, 38-26.

Boyd Richards, Parchie, was the leading scorer with Captain Elmer Booth, Lowell, second, and Captain Ray Lipplemann, Parchie, close third. Three Orions, three Parchies and one Lowell were picked on the All-Star squad this year. Johnson, P. Hill, Box, Orions; Lippelmann, Stiles, Richards, Parchevards, and Booth, Lowell, received majors, while Clyde, Orion, and Mason and Beckner, Lowells, received minors.

In class basketball, the Juniors took the championship for their third consecutive year, with an impressive victory over the Sophomores, 42-20, in the final game.

picked for the fourth year. Lippelmann, defense man; Gissell, goalie, and Richards, Stiles and Sears, forwards, completed the all-star contributions from Parchevard land. John Bercovitz and Dobronte were selected from the Lowell team. Bercovitz is one of the smoothest players on the campus, while Dobronte was the mainstay of the Lowell's defense.

SOFT BALL

The Orions should be the pre-season favorites with the pick of the freshmen and a well-balanced team of experienced players. The Parchies have a snappy infield this year, while the Lowells should have good pitching with less outstanding talent in the infield and outfield. The Orions are headed this year by Captain Ozzie Lutz and Ross Brown, last year's all-star men, together with several other veterans. The Parchies have long-legged Johnnie Sears on first and Jimmie Vawter, their last year's all-star men, with most of their infield back this year. The Lowells will again be headed by their last year's captain and best pitcher, George Mason. All in all, it should be a hard-fought, any-team-can-win, season.

VOLLEYBALL

Johnny Smith and Ray Lippelmann, backed by a veteran Parchie team, captured the championship over an equally experienced, hard-fighting Orion team headed by Dan Thomas and Charlie Nelson. The Lowells, depending mostly on freshman material, were blanked in both rounds. The Parchies played their usual steady dependable game, while the Orions were an "on and off" team, going in spurts of flashy playing and again dropping to the very depths.

Women's volleyball reached a new high this year in the last round of games with the Auroras and Callios tying for first place honors. Throughout the entire season the two teams alternately held the coveted position. In the exciting final game to break the tie, the Auroras, led by Jane Clark, were victorious over the Callios. The winners played hard and cooperated beautifully; all passes and returns were hard and fast.

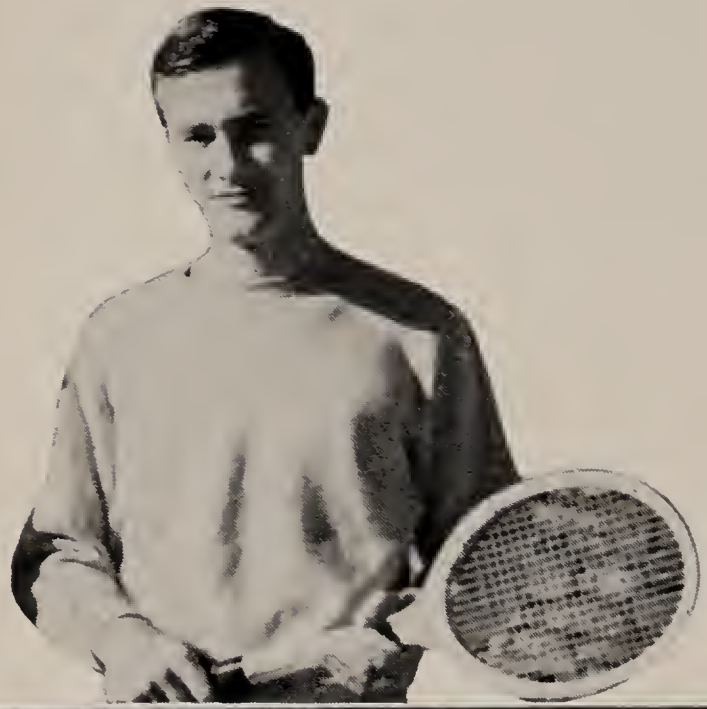
TRACK

The pre-season prediction is that the track meet should be a close battle this year. The Parchies have lost their two outstanding men of last year's team, Irwin and Pace, who accounted for 39½ points between them. The Parchies seem to have the edge in the weight events and distance races, while the Orions and Lowells will be fighting it out for the weight events, sprints and jumps. Webb and Weber may take some of the distance events for the Orions, but it seems rather doubtful if anyone can top Parchie cross-country winner, Johnnie Sears.

TENNIS



Ray Lippelmann, junior, captured his second Park tennis title this year, defeating Ross Brown in the finals. Ray ran through the first two sets with the easy scores of 6-2, 6-0. In the third set, however, he found himself forced back by hard drives and placements as Ross went into the lead, 4-2. Then Ray started to work and ran the count to 5-5. Finally, with the count 9-9, Ray managed to take the next two games and the set to win 11-9.

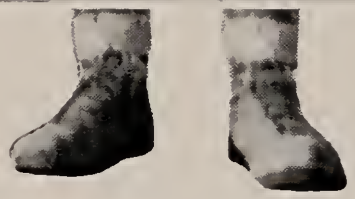


TABLE TENNIS

Paul Griffith was crowned King of Park Table Tennis this year as he came through to defeat Elmer Booth in the finals in four straight games, 21-9, 21-9, 21-7, 21-7. In the doubles, Brown-Griffith defeated Hall-Wigg, winning the first game, dropping the next two, and then winning three in a row, 22-20, 17-21, 16-21, 21-11, 21-18, 21-16.

SOME MORE GOOD SPORTS

Did you ever wonder about the other members of the athletic teams on the campus against whose less sparkling but steadying background the all-star players shine? To an impartial, entirely unsportsophisticated observer the following players seem to merit recognition for their good work.

First is that little Parchie basketeer, seldom scoring, but voted the best team man on the campus by his teammates and opponents, Duke Crawford.

Wearing the blue and blue is Reuben Corbin, as yet without all-star honors, but always giving his best in every contest. Rube is one of the most rapidly improving men in every sport.

Although handicapped somewhat in his vision, Orion John Hill evokes the admiration of the whole school for his courage and impeccable sportsmanship. He engages in all sports and he plays them well.

In girls' athletics, Dotty Hinde, Aurora athlete, deserves much credit for her dependability, perseverance and fight.

Versatile sophomore Lucerne. Nan Morton, because of her consistent work in all sports, certainly deserves a pat on the back.

From the Callios we select Kay Hitchcock, dependable speedball, softball and volleyball player.

It's sportsmen like these that make athletics worth while.

THE MAN

Bob Butler, Park's blue-eyed, wavy-haired, Personality King has an air of joviality about him that is as contagious as a yawn and quite as unpretentious. He has an unquenchable enthusiasm for nature lore and good music, in both of which he is quite well versed and accomplished. He is always willing to enliven a party with a "tune or two on my fiddle." He sings in the a cappella choir and has for several years been concert master of the college orchestra.

Bob's sincerity, generosity, and cheerful disposition have won him the friendship of all Park.

THE WOMAN

No dizzy blonde this—no, sir! Jean is an Art major who plans for a career in Commercial Art.

Always an active member and twice president of the Callios, Jean is a strong influence on freshman lads and lassies to pledge purple and gold. Wherever there is something going on, that is where Jean can usually be found, or, more accurately, wherever Jean is, there is usually something going on.

Everybody remembers her as generous, a delightful companion, and as head waitress a diligent message carrier. Some say it's her smile, others say it's that blonde hair, but most people say it's just Jean that gets you.

WE BREATHLESSLY PRESENT THE FOUR MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMEN at Park, the flower of the flower, the select of the select. From the following girls: Virginia Smith, Dorothy Mercer, Lavonne White, Vinita Rush, Katharine Ficklin, Mary Elizabeth Fleming, Carol Allison, Patricia Sullivan, Paula Swigart, Eva Jean McCleary, Betty Jones and Virginia Hoghland, the four girls here pictured have been chosen as Park's loveliest. The judges were Blondie, Dagwood and Baby Dumpling, aided by Chic Young. What Park knows that the Bumsteads did not is that the personalities of these Queens entitle them even more to be called beautiful women.

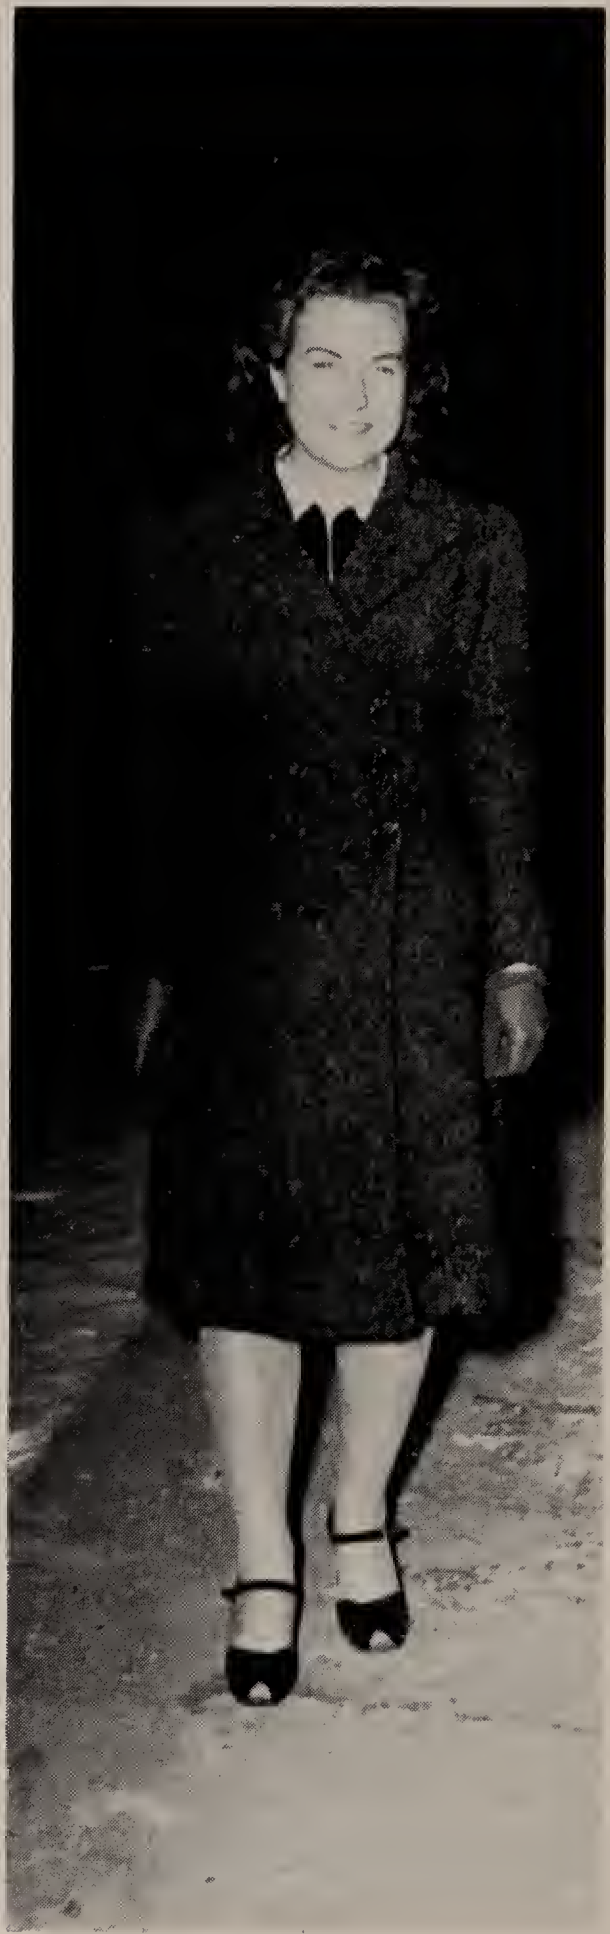
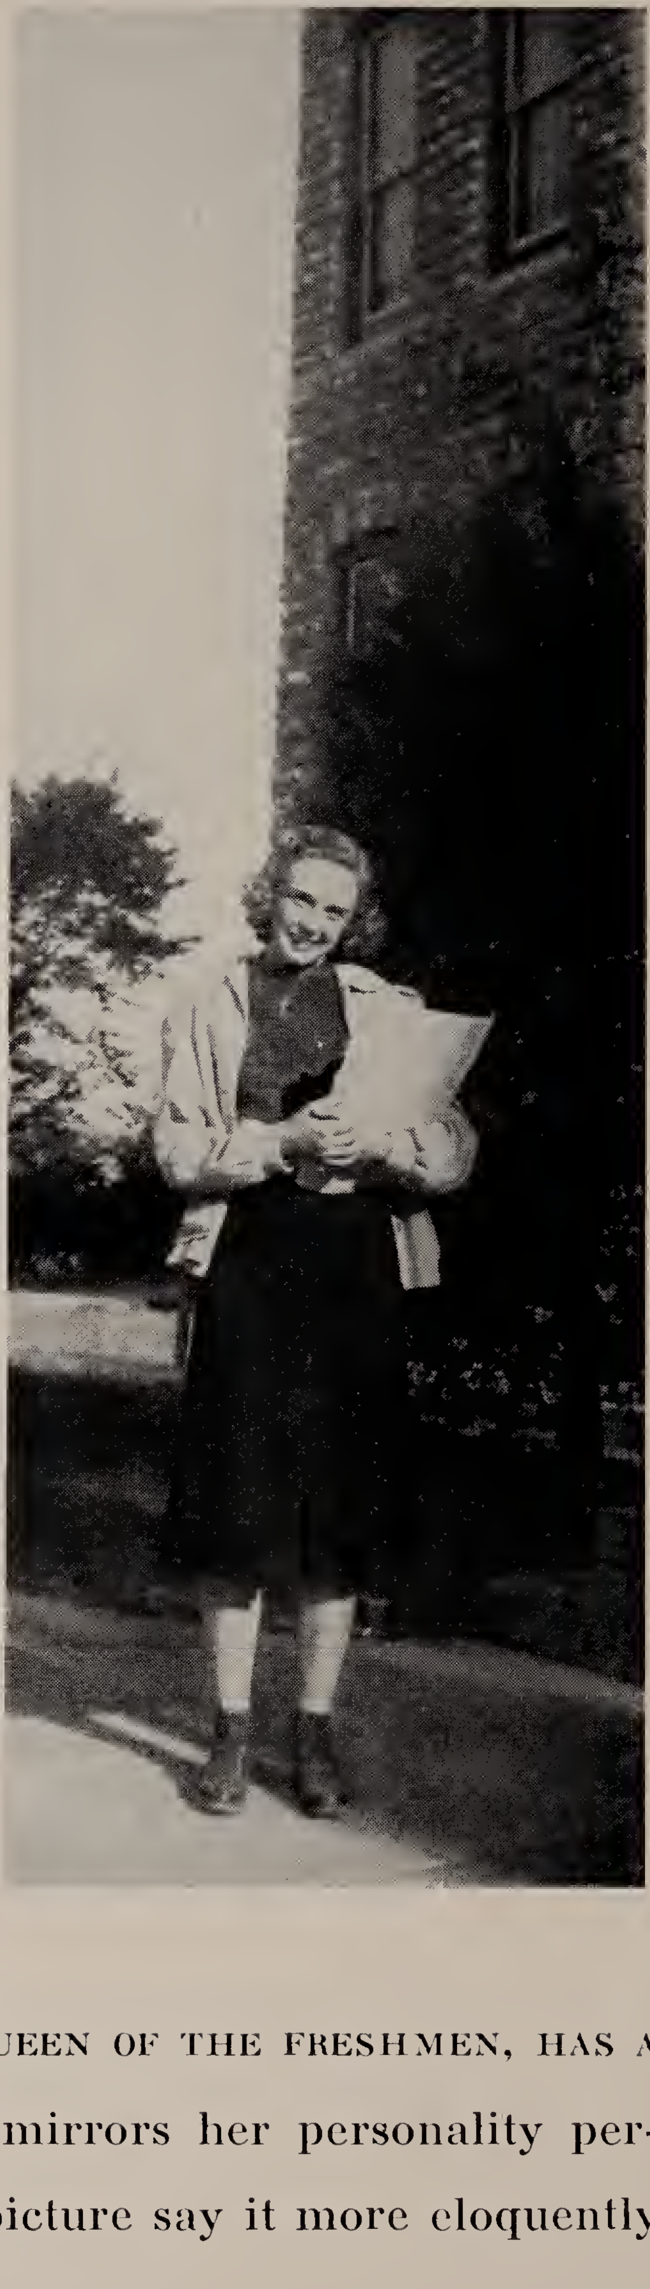
DOROTHY MERCER, PETITE AND EXTREMELY FEMININE, has twice been selected beauty queen of her class. Her lovely features and friendly smile have won for this "charming little brunette" queenship even from a judge who could be a little prejudiced toward blondes.



VINITA RUSH, A NEWCOMER TO THE JUNIOR CLASS, has many appearances in common with Dorothy Lamour. Her soft gray eyes, lovely hair and warm smile make her countenance one of mature beauty and charm.

PAULA SWIGART, LOVELIEST OF SOPHOMORES, HAS BEAUTY that fairly sparkles. Even in her pictures one cannot fail to notice her unequalled poise. Every step and every turn of her head has a grace about it that parallels her facial beauty.



EVA JEAN McCLEARY, QUEEN OF THE FRESHMEN, HAS A sweet, refreshing, vivacious beauty that mirrors her personality perfectly. She . . . but after all, doesn't her picture say it more eloquently than any words?

In a democracy, titles are taboo, but recognition for valuable work and worthy personalities can be given. Once a year Park's highest honors go to seven students who have distinguished themselves through scholarship and leadership.

Once again a blue bound volume of "Who's Who Among American Universities and College Students" has taken its place in the libraries of the nation. Hats off to the representatives from Park!

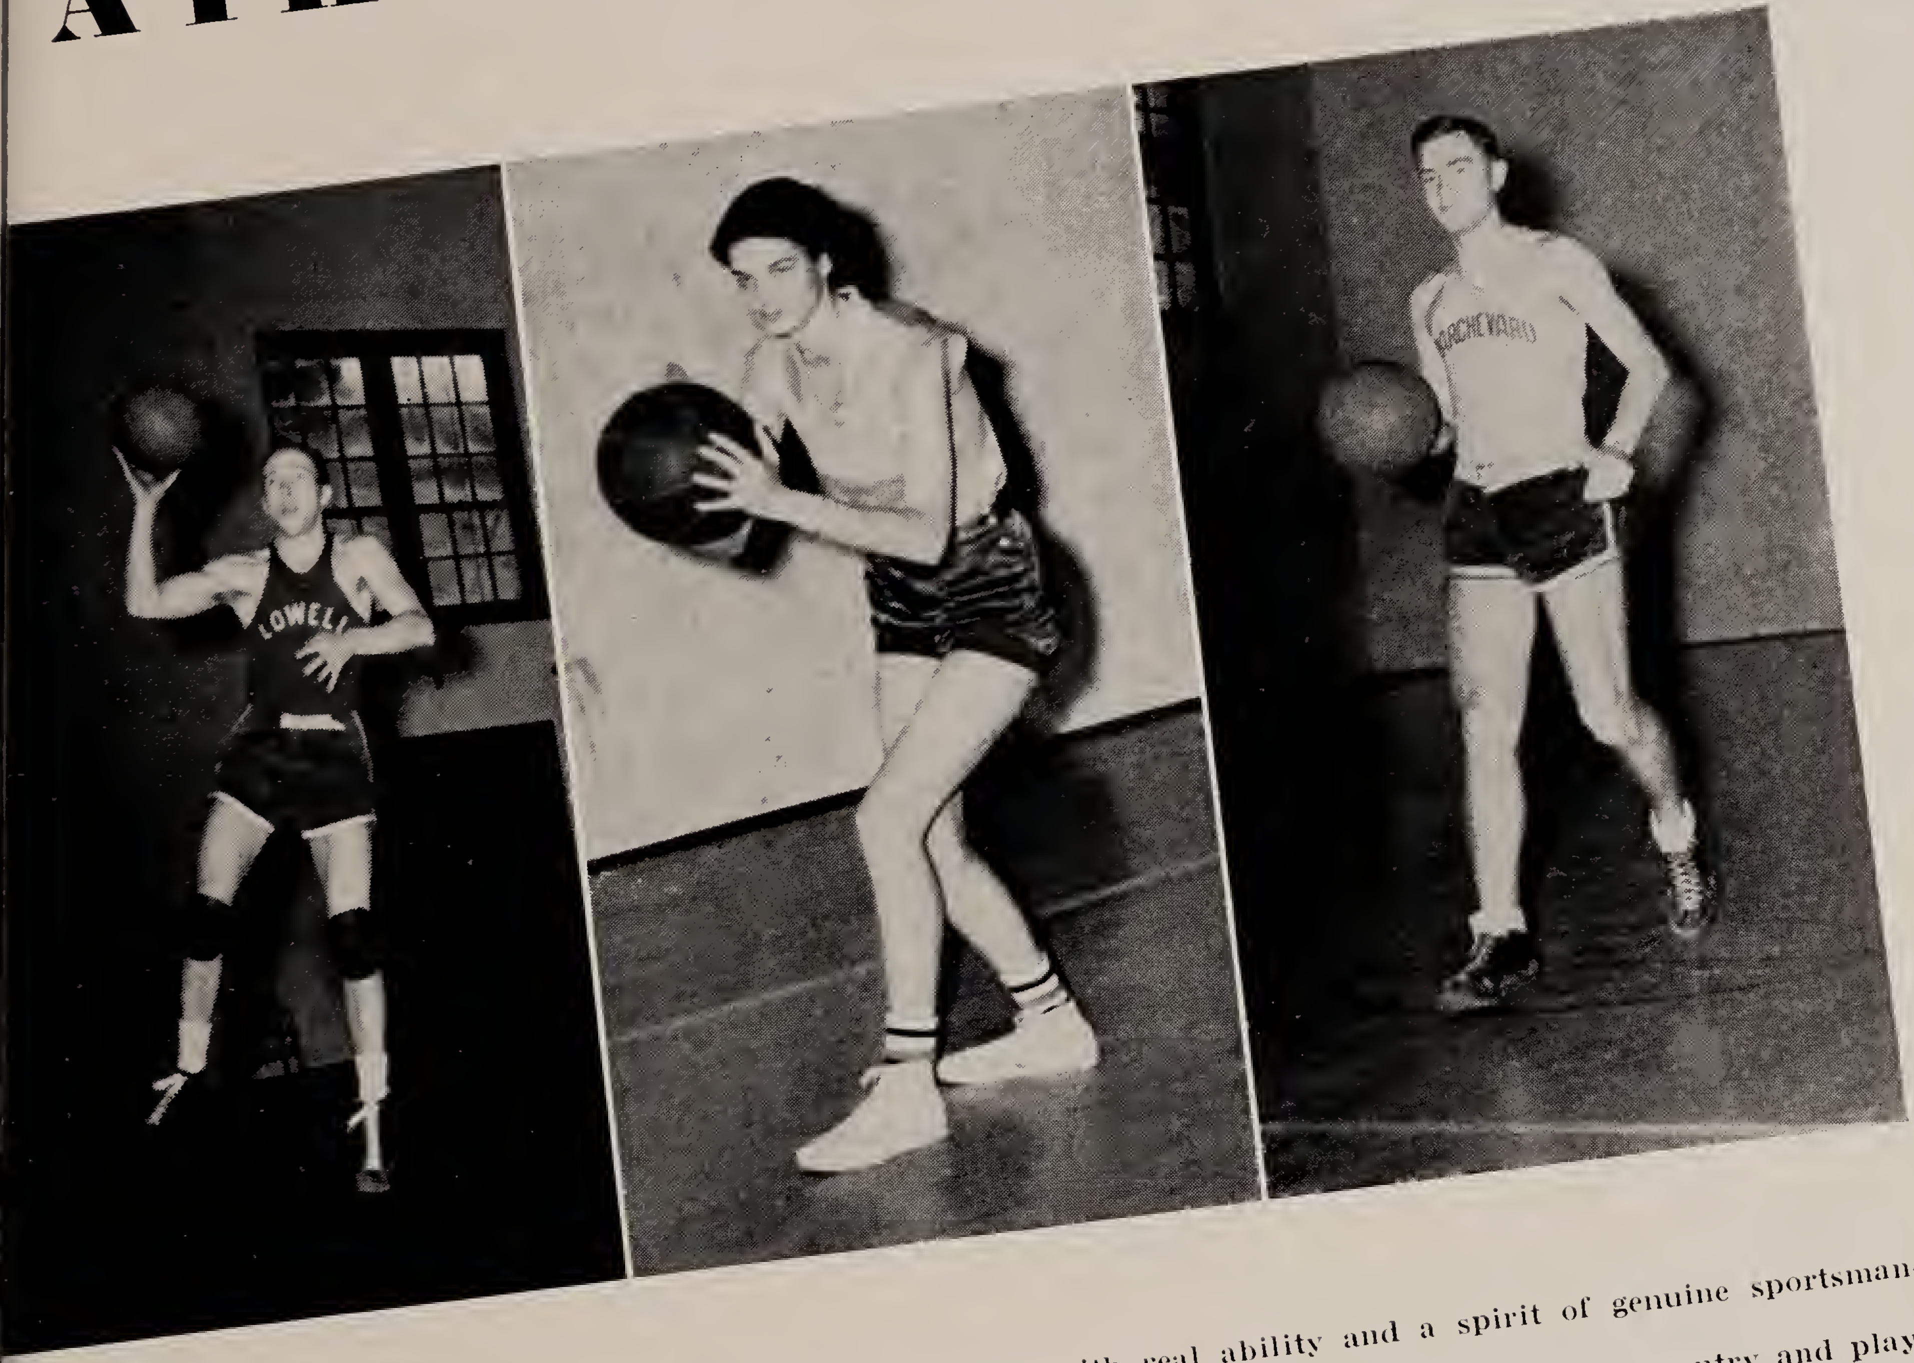
Here are the six athletes chosen as fair samples of the athletic prowess of their respective clubs. Not always the very best player, not always sensational or flashy, not always participating in all of the sports, but always loyal, fighting, and sportsmanlike, these athletes deserve the honor of their selection as most representative of their clubs.

ATHLETES ★ ★ ★



Helen Brock's cool consistency combined with real ability and a spirit of genuine sportsmanship has made her Aurora representative athlete.

J. W. Phillips, fiery little Orion soccer and soft ball all-star, also runs cross country and plays volley ball.

Florence Green, versatile, dependable, fast, and accurate Lucerne athlete is a familiar figure in basketball, volley ball and speed ball.

George Mason, Lowell, is a hard driver in all sports: soccer, basketball, soft ball, track and cross country.

Virginia Barnett, an invaluable asset to the Callio speed ball team, also played hockey, soft ball and basketball during her years at Park.

Ray Lipplemann, Parchevard all-star soccer, basketball and volley ball man and Park tennis champ, is also M. A. A. President.

PARK MEN PREFER

By Roger Dickeson

If you would be loved, if you would be dated, and yea, even wedded, harkee to the following words of wisdom and profit, for, femmes, here are a few notes on what Park men prefer.

Two to one if you're an attractive brunette you stand in better stead than those of other hair hues but, of course, there's nothing you can do about that, or is there?

Now fuheavens' sakes don't go Einstein over this next statement, but be a little intellectual. Or, if impossible, be on the carefree side. The gal with the most "coke power per man" will be the one who can discuss fluently with her date the effect of sawdust on the German constitution when the chatter runs that way. Appreciate music, good books, art, and with one hundred and fifty Park men you're on the first floor.

Most of all, be sincere. Don't feed him a line . . . your line may have a sinker on it! Laugh at his jokes and crack a few wise ones yourself. Thoughtfulness, enthusiasm and sweetness rank high as qualities of the double-peachy type woman.

On the petting question, the pro's and con's are pretty evenly split. By a huge majority, drinking is taboo, and the same goes for smoking—stay on the right side, sisters!

The girl who is sincerely Christian is admired and preferred by three out of four fellows.

Keep the slang under your breath on dates. Save it for your roommate when she wears your best hose.

Long, simply coiffed hair (that doesn't become entangled in the dancing partner's teeth as one fellow puts it) is favored.

When "puffing on" the complexion, Frauleins, put on the soft pedal. You'll be seen without looking like a stop light. Follow the same tactics with fingernail polish, too. Natural polish or none at all is much preferred to the garish tips of many of the feminine digits.

In wearing clothes, about the only hint given is to have them neat looking.

There, you have it, girls. Don't say we didn't tell you.

PARK WOMEN PREFER

Do we Park women have good taste in choosing the boys with whom we associate? We hope that we have, and we think that we have. The poll taken this fall to determine our likes and dislikes in our boy friends proved that we are at least reasonable, and maybe a bit imaginative.

When one hundred and seventy-five of us expressed our candid opinions on this matter, there were of course some peculiar slants that were quite surprising and amusing. For instance, would you suspect that one coed likes hair oil all right—"just so it doesn't drip"? Another OK's mustaches on brunettes only, and a third flatly rebels at all "lines." Seriously, though, Park women may be called, with a stretch of the imagination, conservative. Concerning color of hair and complexion, 50 per cent of us have no preferences, the other half being about evenly divided among the blonds, brunettes, and red heads. Half of us prefer the "just attractive" man to the pretty or very dashing type.

The intellectual-leader type is the most popular, appealing respectively to 67 per cent and 50 per cent of the ladies. The athlete is the preference of 23 per cent of the girls, while the "cave man" brings up the rear.

or the athlete

but mustaches? Never!

By Jonnye Alice Ritter

What kind of qualities do we approve? Four-fifths of us demand absolute sincerity, 72 per cent ambition, 72 per cent courtesy, 63 per cent thoughtfulness, and 65 per cent a sense of humor. The garrulous and "too forward" type and very quiet, timid boys fared poorly. It seems that Park women like boys that are well balanced, and our standards are a little on the high side.

It is nice to know that 74 per cent of us disapprove of smoking, 85 per cent of drinking, and 81 per cent of petting. We prefer a man who enjoys good books, music, and art, and we favor the man who is sincerely Christian.

He need not be a good dancer, say all but 21 per cent of the girls, but we prefer it. As to personal habits of grooming, 54 per cent dislike hair oil and 86 per cent object to mustaches.

From this survey of what we women students desire in our gentlemen friends we discover ourselves to be sensible and a little idealistic. We like the boys but we want them to measure up to what we believe wide-awake and intelligent college boys should be.

(The information for these two articles comes from questionnaires distributed early in the year. 175 women and 180 men expressed their preferences.—The Editor.)

Not that any definite statements can be made about these people "going steady," or "having a crush" or being "that way" about each other or any such things, but, shall we say, the people on the adjoining page have been seen in each other's company, a little too frequently to be coincidence.

How about this dating business on the campus anyway? How much time should be spent in pursuit of a boy friend or a girl friend and how much may be spared for things almost as important such as study, classes, or work? Should I send this shirt to the laundry or buy Clarabelle a coke with the dime I hope my roommate will lend me? Shall Harry and I get our lessons together in the library tonight or had I better study? It's a problem.

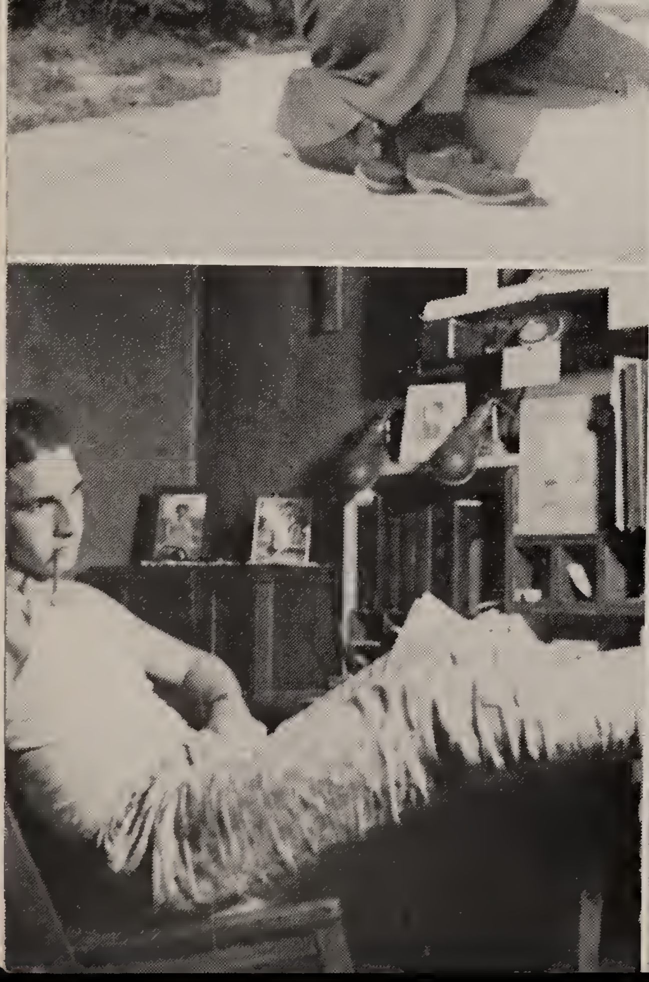
GERTIE AND PAUL

Yes, Park is a rare field for budding romances. Take the Commons for instance. Where else can a boy hunt and hunt for a place to sit, while dozens of chairs are vacant all around him? Where else can a girl shoo dozens of boys away until a passable one appears just by telling them that the seat is saved?

Then there's family work. Girl asks boy for help with heavy pan of tomato dumplings—boy asks girl for date to show.

There are shady paths toward Chestnut and Woodward, all-school feeds in Dear Park, a sunny spot on Copley steps, a good looking girl at the desk in the library—in ways too numerous to mention Dan Cupid uses the opportunities that Park offers. It adds a lot to College life.

(Due to rapid turnover and fluctuation in the hearts market, however, the accuracy of these lineups after the time of publication cannot be vouched for.)



INTERESTING PEOPLE ★

If variety is the spice of life then the Park campus certainly is a tasty dish. Just for garnishment this year we have had such morsels as the basketball game between the tough athletic force and the very tough general force. But the game wasn't all. There was a parade-to-end-all-parades led by Bobbie Carter followed by the laundry truck loaded with gals and Goodwin's Gauchos while the Boss himself rode in a wheelbarrow.

But that is just a sample tid-bit. Dashes of spice have been added to Park life throughout the year by such interesting people as the owners of those visages across the page. For example, we all know that a bed is the natural place to sleep, but if it's the night before the Copley formal and you're first-floor men, Sy and Snod believe that the hall floor is the place to rest your wax-weary bones.

Another hot dish was the Sadie Hawkins Day race. Selle was such interesting propoganda as Hairless Joe that he enticed many a bachelor to run for his life.

Speaking of spice, it's spice and everything nice that makes up the Chesterfield girl, "even if she is only a picture," say Paul and Dick. When it comes to taste, though, Bill and Waldo seem to have plenty of it, but then Pat and Betty don't do so badly by themselves, either.

For a variety of personality flavors we might suggest that you try something like the Seven Sirens, Ulista, Marge, Nan, Stuckie, Pat, Jean, and Peggy who must have helped Dale Carnegie write How to Win Friends and Influence People. And what could be more appropriate than a red top-knot for Essie, the girl who radiates personality.

» » » » OR WHY PARK IS HIGHLY SEASONED WITH THE SPICE OF LIFE

Are you hungry, Profs, for a hint of students studying? Take a look at that gang practically storming the door of the library, and at Chuck Edwards concentrating. The camera cannot lie, you know.

Yes, college is a tasty dish, say Belle, Arzie, Treeman and Mary, but it has to be supplemented once in a while with something more nourishing. Please pass the olives.

A DAY WITH A PROF

—or twelve good reasons why you shouldn't let your son be a candid cameraman. We present pictorially part of the events that fill a professor's day—any day when students wish the profs also had something to do.

HAVE YOU EVER WONDERED HOW A PROFESSOR SPENDS his time? Is he really human? Does he have to study, too? How does he know all the things he says in his lectures? Or does he?

Professor of Sociology, Homer L. Williams, aids in bringing to light for the first time the life and habits of those mysterious creatures called professors.

Here in a pictorial outline are just twelve intimate glimpses of the many duties, pleasures, and routine tasks which fill to the brim the days of a modern college professor.

GOOD-BYE TO '40

And so closes the school year of 1939 and '40. The sweep of black graduation gowns announces the approaching finale to a year that has been packed with new experiences. One has but to go back to the home surroundings from whence he came and in which he grew up to realize that change has been going on—a change, painful though it might be at first, that must go on at an ever increasing rate if College is to be a significant experience.

Who can say what has been the most effective in causing the growth—the work, the dorm sessions, the association with other students, the parties and gaiety, the class room discussions, the religious services, or more powerful yet, the stimulation of all of these upon an impressionable and active mind in moments of solitude.

Underneath the sparkling obligato of college life as pictured in the preceding pages is a serious tone vibrating on the personalities of the students at Park. There is an awareness that each year of college life increases the number of talents over which we have stewardship and for which we some day must give account. As each year we see a senior class graduated and ultimately are graduated ourselves, we realize that the finger of moral responsibility, to ourselves and our fellowmen, points the more squarely at us, and then beckons to us to translate into unselfish service the opportunities that it has been our fortunate lot to enjoy.

STATISTICS SHOW—

That Life Insurance is the item of greatest value in the list of assets of estates in the aggregate that are filed for probate.

Young people are wise if they make this their first investment.
It is the item of surest value in building an estate.
It is cash on the barrelhead at maturity, and its value increases from year to year through the inevitable law of compound interest.

Optional settlement clauses make our policies adjustable to changing needs.

KEEPING STEP WITH PROGRESS

Today, as never before, life holds so much in store for us. New vistas, new fields of human endeavor are opening up. New inventions to make life easier—more comfortable—are always appearing.

The tempo of life has increased . . . . we are living at the swiftest pace history has ever seen. There is so much to see, so much to do that there doesn't seem to be enough hours in the day.

To keep pace with the onrush of human progress is our endeavor . . . . to make your work easier . . . . give you more leisure time to enjoy life is our goal.

Greetings to the Annual Staff of '41

★ it has been our happy privilege to work with the Staff of '40 in the printing of this book . . . and we ask you to examine it as a specimen of our craftsmanship.

★ your task of developing the next book will begin with the opening of classes in September.

★ but before you are dismissed for the summer vacation, we suggest that you confer with the Staff of '40 and let them tell you of our competency in assisting them with the printing of this book.

★ then, when you are ready to talk about the printing of YOUR book you'll want to avail yourselves of the experienced counsel we stand ready to give you.

The staff of the 1940 Narva wishes to express its sincere appreciation to those firms who have made possible the Narva by placing their advertisements in it. Not only because of the interest which they have so willingly expressed in Park College, but also because of the high standard of service which they offer, are our advertisers deserving of student patronage.
